PHANTOM POLICE DRIVE EMBEZZLER TO CONFESS ALL

Young Canadian Accountant, Haunted Day and Night by Mithical Pursuers, Gives Himself Up in St. Louis to Escape His Burning Conscience, He Says.

HE HAD THIRTY DAYS OF AWFUL TORTURE

Forged Checks for $700, Stole $180 and Then Started His Wanderings Into the United States Disguised as a Laborer.

> My conscience hath a thousand several tongues,
> And every tongue brings in a separate tale.
> And every tale condemns me for a villain.
> —Richard III.

Phantom detectives and policemen who haunted his dreams by thousands, drove George Moretti, 22 years old, to surrender himself Tuesday to Capt. Schwartz of the Central District and confess that he was guilty of embezzlement and forgery. Moretti's flight from his conscience had extended from Canada to New Orleans and from Winnipeg to New York.

"Every night," the young man told Capt. Schwartz, "after I fall asleep policemen and detectives throng around me and call me thief and forger. I can't sleep an hour without starting up shrieking and struggling to escape the grasp of an officer of the law upon my arm.

"In the day time I can't eat. Once I was in a lunch room and saw a policeman looking at me through the door. I almost choked. If a man looks at me twice I think he's a detective. The strain is killing me. I hope I can find rest in a cell."

Wanted in Canada.

Moretti's confession was corroborated by a police circular on file at headquarters, reciting that George Moretti was wanted at Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, for embezzling $187 from the Credit-Foncier Co., of which he was accountant, and for forging checks totaling $700 in the name of one of the company's customers, Roger Delhage.

"I had bright prospects with the Credit-Foncier Co.," said Moretti, "but began to speculate. I was soon heavily in debt and stole to cover my losses. When exposure was imminent last April, I fled to Winnipeg.

"I had been known as a Beau Brummel. At the Queen's Hotel in Winnipeg I doffed my stylish clothes and donned a laborer's garb, as ragged as I could find. Thus disguised, I went to Minneapolis, and shipped out with labor gangs.

Haunted All the Time.

"I found that I could not endure large cities. At every corner I would meet a policeman and would almost betray myself through the agitation I felt. It seemed in big cities that policemen were elbowing me everywhere, and that every man who looked at me curiously was on my track and about to expose me. My nerves could not endure it.

"I spent a week in St. Louis, but the policemen were always thronging about me, asleep and awake. In a frenzy, I fled to New York, hoping to become lost in the population. But there were more policemen in New York than anywhere else.

"After a few days of agony, I escaped to New Orleans and hired out as a farm laborer at Hammond, La. Here, I thought, I would be safe. But one day a stranger arrived at a neighboring farm. When he looked hard at me one day, all my old fears swarmed back. I was so terrified that I fled in the night and walked 196 miles to Jackson, Miss. There I took a train for St. Louis and have been here a month.

Had 30 Days of Hell.

"During these 30 days of hell I have not eaten at the same place twice or spent two nights at the same lodging house. And every time I fell into a doze, scores of policemen sprang up about me and denounced me as a criminal."

Moretti breathed a deep sigh of relief as he was locked in a cell at the Central District holdover.

GOV. STUBBS BEING SCRATCHED

Stand-Pat Republicans Voting for Opponent of Kansas Governor.

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 8.—It became evident early in the day that Gov. Stubbs was being scratched in nearly every precinct, his Democratic opponent, George H. Hodges, profiting. Standpat Republicans were voting for Hodges and many railroad men also were deserting Stubbs.

The Greatest Want Medium in the World is the Post-Dispatch. It publishes more want ads in proportion to population than any other metropolitan newspaper on earth.

BOY WHILE ASLEEP BREAKS PA'S RIBS

Parent Undetermined Whether to Bring Him Up as Football Player or Insurgent.

Fred J. Klopmeier, highway commissioner of Wood River, near Alton, has a 5-year-old son who can kick so hard that he does not know whether to make a football player or an insurgent of him.

The most recent kick registered by the boy broke two of his father's ribs, according to Klopmeier's statement to a surgeon.

Klopmeier walked into the surgeon's office and told him he had a pain in his side.

Examination showed two well-defined rib fractures.

"How did you get them?" asked the surgeon.

"Well, you see, my boy sleeps with me. Last night he was restless and he kicked me in the side."

"What college does he go to?" asked the surgeon.

"Why, he's only 5 years old," said Klopmeier.

The surgeon says that he never before heard of a child of that age who had sufficient powers of pedal propulsion to cause a compound comminuted fracture of the paternal lattice work.

MONKEYS STEAL COSMETICS AND ONE IS FOUND WASHING WINDOW

Knocks Off Spots With a Hair-brush and Locks Door to Head Off Pursuers.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 8.—Mystery surrounding the long continued pilfering of soap, combs, perfumery and other articles from the rooms of lodgers at 41 Mulberry street probably was cleared up today when two monkeys, the property of a neighbor, Mrs. Mary Montour, were found ransacking the house. Each was in a different room when found.

The one which later proved the more intelligent was washing a window, after methods of its own, which included knocking off with the back of a hair brush such spots as did not yield readily to soap and water. The other was perched on a dressing case in front of a mirror applying cold cream to the tip of his nose with one paw and pouring cologne on his head from a bottle with the other. This one escaped through an open window.

The window washer darted through the door and into the hall and manipulated a spring lock so cleverly that his pursuers were at a standstill until he himself came to their rescue by opening the door and starting the chase again. Finally he, too, escaped through an open window.

STEALS GIRL ON MOTOR CYCLE; PARENTS PURSUE IN AN AUTO

Damage to Machine in Rear Gives Race and a Bride to Modern Lochinvar.

LE SUEUR, Minn., Nov. 8.—An elopement extraordinary occurred at the home of Wilbur Methmen, a farmer, Saturday, when his 20-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, sped away with her lover, George Hetting. She was seated in front of Hetting on the handlebars of a motor cycle, pursued by the wrathful parents in an automobile.

The route for the local Vanderbilt Cup race lay along the devious windings of the old Dodd road, and Methmen kept up the chase, never more than half a mile behind, across Cordova and into Waterville Township, until a blowout of a front tire landed him and his machine in a muddy ditch two miles north of Waterville Village. With the race and the bride both won, Hetting sped on to Waseca, where the young couple were married, and soon after were forgiven by telegraph by the father, who says he is a good loser.

GAS MAKES TWO DOCTORS LAUGH, THEN EXPLODES

They Dance in Glee Until Deluged With the Fluid.

THE INVENTOR FLEES

Hospital Carpet and Suit of Clothes Ruined by Experiment.

A brisk young man carrying a strange contrivance, of glass, with brass trimmings and innumerable tubes, faucets and stop-cocks walked into the office of Dr. Bauer, superintendent of the city hospital, Monday afternoon.

"I'm the laughing-gas man," he said with a genial smile.

"What's that you have?" asked Dr. Bauer.

"The greatest invention of the age. It enables physicians and surgeons to generate their own laughing-gas. Oxygen made while you wait."

Dr. Bauer became interested and he called in Dr. Walter R. Hewitt to witness a demonstration which the genial young man promised to make on the spot.

Starts Experiment.

The inventor placed bicarbonate of soda in the glass reservoir and poured water on it. After it bubbled a few minutes he handed a rubber tube to Dr. Bauer.

"Place that in your mouth and take a deep breath," he said. Dr. Bauer did. He was strangely transformed. First he smiled, then he laughed. Then he danced about the room, exclaiming:

"Young man, you've got it. Ha, ha, it's the real thing, all right. Laughing gas while you wait."

Dr. Hewitt also tried it. He laughed, too.

"Now," said the demonstrator. "When you want to shut off the supply of oxygen you just turn this little brass tap, as I do now."

There was a deafening explosion and fragments of the wonderful contrivance were scattered about the room.

Fall Suit Ruined.

Dr. Hewitt's new fall suit was drowned in bicarbonate of soda and water and the white compound deluged Dr. Baur's new derby hat.

The physicians quit laughing. When they got the stuff that oxygen is made of out of their eyes the young man was gone.

Dr. Bauer has ordered a new carpet for his office and says that the city hospital will worry along without a short-order oxygen machine.

TWO FITZGERALDS, EACH WITH OYSTER LOAF, IN ACCIDENTS

One Drowns in Shallow Pool, the Other Falls Beneath Wheels of Car.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 8.—Two accidents, one of them resulting in death and the other possibly fatal, led to comment in police circles here last night. The victim in each case was named Fitzgerald, though not related, and an oyster loaf figured in each accident.

William Fitzgerald, a painter, hurrying homeward with an oyster loaf early yesterday morning, stumbled against a post and, supposedly knocked unconscious, fell into a shallow puddle of water. He drowned.

Thomas G. Fitzgerald, with another oyster loaf tucked under his arm, rushed from a restaurant to board a car. He fell beneath the wheels and may not recover from his injuries.

AFTER 3 TRIPS POLICE CAPTURE NEGRO BURGLAR

Three Homes Are Entered and 18-Year-Old Girl Is Choked by Thief.

POLICE ARE KEPT BUSY

On Their Last Journey He Is Seen Fleeing and Is Arrested.

The Rev. James Wise, 3043 Locust street, telephoned to the Chief of Police at 2:30 a. m. Tuesday that he had trapped a negro burglar in his home. Sergt. McCormack and Motorcycle Policeman Crawford of the Laclede Avenue District hastened in a patrol wagon to the address, but the negro had escaped.

McCormack and Crawford had just returned to the station when Mrs. L. A. Menke telephoned that a negro burglar had broken through her kitchen window at 3146 Locust street. The patrol wagon again galloped to the scene, but the burglar had escaped.

The policemen once more returned to the station and the telephone rang a third time. John C. Van Luster, 3112 Locust street, declared that a negro burglar had entered his home, stolen $5 and choked his daughter, Leona, 18 years old, when she awoke and screamed.

Negro Is Arrested.

McCormack and Crawford again mounted the patrol wagon and hastened to the scene. At Pine street and Ewing avenue Crawford saw a negro running east and arrested him. He was identified as the burglar by Mrs. Van Luster and John Connors.

The negro wore an overcoat, which the police say was stolen Sunday night from the home of T. H. Slaughter, 3818 Westminster place. In the negro's room at 2911 Atlantic street they found a number of articles of wearing apparel which they believe were stolen in recent West End burglaries. He said his name was William Davis, or William Hill, and that he was an ex-convict.

Miss Van Luster was asleep in her room when the burglar entered. Her window was raised several inches to admit fresh air. Her mother, sleeping in an adjoining room, says she believes she heard someone slowly raise the window, but that she fell asleep without investigating. The negro stole through Miss Van Luster's room, leaving a trail of drops of grease from a candle.

Goes Through Window.

He went into the dining room and there took the girl's purse, containing $5. As he returned he paused to close the door between Miss Van Luster's room and her mother's. The hinge creaked and the girl awoke.

The negro sprang to her side and seized her throat with his fingers, but not before she had screamed. Her shriek awakened her mother and also her father, who was asleep in the next room also. Hearing them stirring, the negro flung himself through the window, sash and curtains.

Mrs. Van Luster, throwing up her window, saw him running away, as did John Connors, who had been asleep in the basement of the home. Van Luster telephoned to the police.

Light Awakens Pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Wise, who is pastor of the Holy Communion Episcopal Church, was awakened at 2:30 a. m. by a light in the spare bedroom of his home. Mrs. Wise, thinking the maid was up, called her by name. The light suddenly went out. The clergyman hastened to lock the door of the spare room, but was too slow. He caught a glimpse of a black face as the burglar dashed down the stairs and jumped through a window. In this case, also, there was a trail of candle grease and burnt matches.

The burglar entered Mrs. Menke's home by standing on an ice cream freezer under a kitchen window. He was frightened away before he could steal anything.

The negro was identified later by the Bertillon prints as William H. Davis, who was released from the Jefferson City penitentiary a month ago, after serving a three years' term for burglary.

In his pockets were a half-burned candle, a box of matches and a $5 bill. He declined to make a statement concerning the three house-breakings.

Three women whose homes were entered by a negro burglar on the night of Oct. 15, viewed Davis Tuesday afternoon at the Laclede Avenue Station, and declared they could not identify him. They were Mrs. John Walsh, 3662 Cook avenue; Mrs. G. W. Wilson, 3647 Page boulevard, and Mrs. T. J. Foristel, 3633 Cook avenue.

ACTRESS WHO FEARS LOSS OF VOICE WILL END HER CAREER

MARGARET ANGLIN

MARGARET ANGLIN IN GRAVE DANGER OF LOSING VOICE

Doctor Calls Her Condition Serious, Thinks Operation Will Be Necessary.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Margaret Anglin, one of the most popular actresses on the American stage, is in grave danger of losing her voice.

Dr. George W. Whitfield, who is attending Miss Anglin, declared today that the condition of his patient's nose and throat was such that a loss of voice sufficient to embarrass her stage career might result unless immediate improvement follows.

Miss Anglin is at the home of Mrs. O. McG. Howard in Glencoe resting, preparatory to an operation on her nose, which will be performed within the next few days.

Condition Grave, Says Doctor.

"Miss Anglin's condition is very grave indeed," said Dr. Whitfield. "I cannot for the life of me understand how she was able to work as long as she did with her vocal affliction.

"Her vocal chords are in terrible condition. I have prescribed absolute quiet for her and have issued orders that even her very intimate friends in this city be denied the privilege of visiting her."

"Is there any danger of Miss Anglin losing her voice?" the doctor was asked.

"In all my experience," he replied, "I have never seen a case where the nose and vocal organs were in such a dreadful state. If it is possible to bring her through safely without an operation I will do it. However, judging by her condition today, an operation will be necessary, probably Thursday or Friday of this week."

Her Career on the Stage.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Nov. 8.—Miss Margaret Anglin belongs to a distinguished Canadian family. Her father was Speaker of the Ottawa House of Commons at the time of her birth, 34 years ago.

At 17, having had some success as a reader, she went to New York, against the wishes of her parents, and was chosen from Nelson Wheatcroft's school by Charles Frohman to play Madeline West in "Shenandoah" at the Academy of Music, where she made her first professional appearance in 1894. Two years later, after a season on the road, she was with James O'Neil. In 1897 she organized a company and played Rosalind in "As You Like It" through lower Canada.

Her Roxane in Richard Mansfield's production of "Cyrano de Bergerac" in 1898 established her as one of the foremost emotional actresses of the day. She became Charles Frohman's leading woman at the Empire Theater and won further laurels.

After four seasons in San Francisco Miss Anglin starred in "Zira," a dramatization of Wilkie Collins' "New Magdalen," and she made a tremendous success as co-star with Henry Miller in William Vaughn Moody's "The Great Divide."

SECRETARY KNOX FAILS TO VOTE

PITTSBURG, Nov. 8.—Secretary of State P. C. Knox, who came to the city yesterday, left today for his summer home at Valley Forge without voting. It was stated at the polling place that he was not registered.

The Republican candidate for Governor, John K. Tener, cast his ballot at his home, Charleroi, near here.

FIVE ROB BANK; ESCAPE IN AUTO; 100 SHOTS FIRED

Two Bandits Wounded After Dynamiting Safe, and Stealing $3500.

By Associated Press.

BEATTIE, Kan., Nov. 8.—Five masked men who came to this place in an automobile, dynamited the safe of the Beattie State Bank at an early hour this morning and obtained $3500.

They escaped in the car, followed by a posse, and a running fight ensued, during which 100 shots were exchanged.

Two of the robbers were wounded. The men are now being pursued by the Sheriff.

BANK THIEVES GET $2000 AND ESCAPE

Blow Into Vault With Nitroglycerin From Ceiling, Flee in Auto.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 8.—After blowing a portion of the vault through the ceiling with nitroglycerin, three robbers took $2000 from the Solether Bank, a private institution at Jerry City, 33 miles from Toledo, early this morning.

The men escaped in an automobile. It is believed the men who robbed the Metamora Bank early Monday morning, getting $4000, were involved in the Jerry City affair.

BANK BURGLARS GET A BIG HAUL

Blow Open Safe With $20,000 in It and Escape in Buggy.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 8.—Burglars blew the safe in the Penfield (Ill.) Bank early today and it is reported that a large amount of cash was stolen, together with $910 worth of postage stamps. There was $20,000 in cash in the vaults when the bank was closed yesterday and it is supposed that much of this has been taken.

The robbers escaped in a buggy.

FLEEING IN AUTO WITH A MILLION

SALT LAKE, Utah, Nov. 8.—According to an affidavit filed in the United States Court here, there is $1,000,000 worth of securities in an automobile en route to Seattle. In the automobile are Mrs. Althea Walker, widow of David F. Walker, her two children, Clarence and Margaret Smoot Walker, and a chauffeur.

Mrs. Sarah A. Paul, another daughter of the late San Mateo millionaire, is the affiant. After her father's death she contested the will, which left most of the estate to the widow, on the ground of undue influence exercised through pretended powers of clairvoyance.

The court was asked to enjoin Mrs. Althea Walker and her children from removing the Walker wealth from this jurisdiction. An order to that effect was issued and served on two of the defendants. Clarence Walker could not be found. Later it was reported the automobile party had passed through Pocatello, Idaho, en route to Seattle.

MORE THAN HALF OF ST. LOUIS VOTE IS CAST BY NOON

This Estimate Is Made Following Unusually Heavy Balloting Downtown in the Morning Hours.

AMENDMENT BALLOTS ARE LEFT IN BOOTHS

One Election Official Is Sent to Observation Ward of City Hospital and Another Is Accused of Intoxication—Warrants Served at Polls.

With the 13-hour election day less than half over, reports made from downtown and central polling places at noon Tuesday showed that more than one-half the total registered vote had been cast in numerous precincts. The same is believed to have been true throughout the city. This was unusual, and was taken as an indication that the total vote when the polls close at 7 p. m. will be within a few thousands of the enormous total registration, 170,693.

Election Commissioners Kortjohn and Blodgett, who returned to the city hall soon after 1 o'clock from an automobile tour of polling places, reported that at some downtown places a number of voters were ignoring the constitutional amendments and were leaving in the booths unvoted the blanket ballots containing them.

In the Fourth, Fifth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Wards the proportion of morning voters to the registration was 50 per cent or more. In the Fourteenth Ward, first precinct, 122 of 225 registered had voted at 11:50 a. m. In the Seventeenth Ward, ninth precinct, 149 of 278 had voted at noon.

Liquor Vote Reported Heavy.

The election commissioners declined to say what indications they found as to party votes, but Republican workers around the Board's office continued to express great confidence of carrying the city, while it was gathered from numerous reports that the vote against the prohibition amendment, among those who voted on the amendments, was very large.

The only report which worried the anti-prohibition workers was that not all the voters were using the amendments ballot.

William Lee, a Republican clerk of election, was removed from the polling place of the Sixth Ward, third precinct, at 316 South Fourth street, at 1:30 p. m., and was sent to the city hospital observation ward. A telephone message to Police Headquarters said he had become demented.

While the other election officials were busy with their work, Lee began sobbing and crying that his soul was lost. The others, who knew that he had been subject to mental disorders, concluded that it was better to remove him.

Arrest of Illegal Voters.

Arrests on charges of fraudulent registration and attempted illegal voting began soon after the opening of the polls at 6 a. m. In many of the 403 precincts policemen waited with their pockets stuffed with warrants, and with penciled lists in their hands, for the men named in the warrants to come in and ask for ballots.

Charles W. Meyer, wearing a Francis badge and button, and Harvey A. Whitaker, whose pockets contained a quantity of Dyer-for-Congress literature, were arrested soon after the polling place in the courthouse basement opened, charged with attempting to vote illegally. They said they were entitled to vote, and the police found that Whitaker's arrest had been a mistake. He was released and allowed to vote.

A bench warrant made out in the name of Martin Keunstler, charging fraudulent registration, was served on the man who attempted to vote under that name at a Biddle street polling place. The arrested man showed a card of membership in the Cement Workers' Union, giving his address as 1418 Biddle street, the place from which he had offered to vote. He said he had lived there for several years.

Keunstler protested that a mistake had been made, and Police Captain Schoppe was inclined to believe him, and started an investigation. The bench warrant against him was one of several hundred issued at the request of the grand jury Monday.

Election Clerk Arrested.

Frank Hild, Republican clerk of election in the Fifth Ward, Sixth Precinct, was arrested Monday night at his home, 823 North Sixth street, on the statement of Police Lieutenant McMullen that he had been indicted for failure to perform his duty as an election official. He denied any wrongdoing and said he canvassed his precinct carefully and removed all the names that he thought should be removed from the books.

Though apparently entitled to vote, Henry W. Janecke, a shoemaker at 823 North Sixth street, was arrested when he went to the polling place of the Fifth Ward, Sixth Precinct, at 817 North Seventh street.

Canvassers sent out by the Circuit Attorney failed to find Janecke at the address from which he registered and he was named in a warrant. Capt. Schoppe ordered an investigation and found that Janecke lived at the place from which he registered. He was taken to the Carr street station and held until an order for his release was obtained from the Circuit Attorney's office.

At the polling place of the Twelfth Ward, First Precinct, at 222 East Marceau street, the clerks were unable to unlock the box containing the constitutional amendment ballots. They forced open the box. A policeman notified the Election Commissioners' office, and received instructions not to permit anyone to vote until a new box could be sent to the polling place.

Robert H. Hubbert, a negro, registered from 2325 Market street, was arrested when he attempted to vote at 2 South Jefferson avenue. A policeman accompanied him to the address he gave and found that he moved from there two weeks ago. He was locked up at the Laclede Avenue Station.

Because he was unable to walk straight Thomas J. Elliott of 304 Elm street, an election clerk, was arrested when he appeared at the polling place, 316 South Fourth street, which is in the Third Precinct of the Sixth Ward. Special Officers Miller and Campbell, who made the arrest, say Elliott was intoxicated. He is 38 years old and a night watchman.

Arrested at Polling Place.

Henry C. Watkins was arrested at the courthouse polling place when he attempted to vote on his registration from the Globe Hotel, 112 North Sixth street. He declared that while his family lived in the northwest part of the city, he was a traveling salesman and lived at the hotel whenever he was in St. Louis. "I came here from Chicago to vote for Frank M. Slater for Justice of the Peace," he said, "and this is pretty tough treatment."

Under stringent orders from Chief

FAIR WEATHER EXPECTED TO BRING OUT BIG VOTE

REPORTS received at the St. Louis office of the United States Weather Bureau Tuesday were that the weather was clear throughout Missouri, with light winds and temperatures ranging from 34 to 44. The temperature will rise during the day. There is no indication of rain in any part of the State.

The weather in St. Louis was ideal, and general conditions were such as to promise a heavy vote in the city and State. Leaders of both parties said they expected the heaviest vote ever cast in Missouri. The total vote of Missouri in 1908 was nearly 700,000, with the St. Louis about 125,000. The lowest estimate for the St. Louis vote this year is 160,000, and if other parts of the State equal their vote of the last presidential election, the State vote will reach 725,000.

With the exception of the North Atlantic Coast and the North Pacific Coast, the weather is clear throughout the country, with seasonable temperatures. Eastern Pennsylvania, New York and the New England States are having rain and snow, with temperatures ranging from freezing to 40 degrees. The northern half of California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho are having rain. The temperatures range from 40 to 50.

Young, who has declared that he would hold captains and patrolmen responsible for any disorder or irregularities, the policemen generally showed great anxiety to prevent fraud and riotous demonstrations. The 100-foot rule, prohibiting party workers from approaching nearer the polls than that distance, was rigidly enforced at all places, the space in many cases having been carefully measured with a tape.

Workers Stand on Dead Line.

At most of the polling places a few men stood at the dead line, handing out cards in behalf of certain candidates and of certain amendments. Cards urging voters to support the eleventh amendment, providing for the support of the State University, were handed out at West End polling places.

The Twenty-eighth Ward, Sixth Precinct polling place, in the basement of the Central Presbyterian Church, was declared by the early voters of that precinct to be a model. The room used was a spacious gymnasium, and there were facilities for 25 men to prepare their ballots at once. This was in contrast to the quarters in most of the precincts, where the narrow space of barber shops and feed stores gave an opportunity for only three or four to use their pencils at once.

Long lines stood in front of many places at 6 a. m., and in some of them the votes were cast at the rate of nearly one a minute. In the Fourteenth Ward, Thirteenth Precinct, at 6:50 a. m. 19 votes had been cast and 25 were in the line outside.

For the first time, every voter received two ballots. One, in the familiar form of a perforated pad of tickets, contained the names of the candidates, and the other, which merited the name of a blanket ballot, bore the 11 proposed amendments, with "Yes" and "No" in large letters opposite each row of fine print. This ballot was the one which voters stopped to consider, and which made voting slow. Some voters in South Side wards asked the judges to point out the prohibition amendment to them, and having made sure of a vote on it, they scanned the rest at their leisure or let them go.

The death of Dr. J. A. Levy of 4340 Morgan street, which occurred since the September registration, caused the election officials of the Fifteenth Precinct of the Twenty-third Ward to delay in getting started Tuesday morning. Levy's place as a judge was filled as soon as the Election Commissioners learned of the vacancy.

Sixty Men in Line at 3 A. M.

Four hundred men were in line at the Thirteenth Ward, Fourth Precinct, polling place at 2800 South Spring avenue at 6 a. m. Those at the head of the line said that 60 of them had been there since 3. The registration in the precinct, the largest in the city, is 1498. At 8 a. m. 210 men had voted and 300 were in line.

At some places women and children handed out cards in behalf of the prohibition amendment. Mrs. H. Johns and her daughter, Alberta, handed out cards at the Morgan street and Channing avenue polling place, and said they were most considerately treated by the voters.

Francis voted at 11:05 a. m. at the Twenty-fifth Ward, Fifth Precinct, polling place, at 316 North Euclid avenue. He arrived in an automobile with his brother, Tom Francis, and E. F. Goltra, and cast ballot number 271. There had been a long line at the place earlier in the morning, but it had disappeared when he arrived and he did not have to wait. He declined, after leaving the place, to say how he had voted on the senatorship.

Reports of Democratic gains encouraged the workers of that party in the Twenty-second and Twenty-sixth wards. At the Second Precinct polling place of the Twenty-sixth, which was a Republican ward in the election for Mayor, the Democrats got 106 of the first 210 votes cast.

At 9:30 a. m. 157 had voted in the tenth precinct of the Twenty-eighth Ward. The polling place is at 1060 Hamilton avenue. Of this number only four, according to party workers outside the polling place, said they would vote for the prohibition amendment.

Complaints were received from the Nineteenth Ward, Fourth Precinct, and from the Thirteenth Ward, Eighth Precinct, that anti-prohibition stickers were displayed on election officials' tables. In other places, according to Secretary Beedle, it was complained that prohibition stickers were in the polling places. All these were ordered removed.

In the Second Ward, Tenth Precinct, the complaint was made that the Republican judges were keeping a duplicate record of the voters with the aid of carbon paper, in order to send out late in the afternoon and bring in those who had not voted. This is not an offense against the law.

Five minutes after two ward workers were arrested Tuesday morning for fighting before a polling place at 1431 North Fourteenth street, the Election Commissioners were notified by telephone that there were three intoxicated policemen drinking beer with the judges and clerks of election at the polling place. It is in the Eleventh Precinct of the Fourth Ward.

Chief Young notified Capt. Schoppe of the Carr Street District to investigate the report, and Sergt. Dockery was sent to the polling place. He said that he found the policemen on duty perfectly sober, the judges and clerks busy and a long line of voters who had witnessed no bacchanalian scenes, they said.

REPUBLICANS NEED 4 ON JOINT VOTE

Net Gain of That Number Would Give Control of State Legislature.

A net gain by the Republicans of four senatorial or representative districts would give that party a majority on joint ballot and result in the election of a United States Senator by the Republicans. The Thirty-fourth Senatorial District in St. Louis, which was carried four years ago by Senator Prendergast, a Democrat, practically is conceded to the Republicans and the party expects to get two representatives in Kansas City to succeed Democrats.

To count against this, however, there are more than twenty counties in the State which were carried two years ago by less than 100 votes. The Republicans carried a large majority of these, which is considered by Democrats to be favorable to them, as they have fewer close counties to lose, while they have the opportunity of carrying more Republican close counties. Reports from Jasper County indicate the probability of the election of William H. Phelps, a Democrat, to succeed a Republican.

The last Legislature with all members in their seats was Democratic on joint ballot by six votes. Of the 16 holdover senators, 11 are Democrats and five are Republicans. Senator Starke of Louisiana, a Democrat, who would have been a holdover, died after the Legislature adjourned and his seat must be filled.

Senators are being elected in 18 districts, one more than usual, owing to the death of Senator Stark, one of the hold-over senators. All members of the House of Representatives are being elected, the terms of the 142 members expiring every two years.

To maintain the same majority they had two years ago, the Democrats must elect 12 senators and 68 members of the House of Representatives. By the election of six senators and 74 members of the House the Republicans would have the same vote as two years ago.

By gaining four districts in addition to all those carried two years ago, the Republicans would have a maority on joint ballot.

VOTERS HAVE A CANVAS SHELTER AND BENCHES

THE most luxurious polling place among the 402 precincts Tuesday was that at 3243 South Spring avenue, in the fourth precinct of the Thirteenth Ward. Extending from the door was a canvas runway, nearly a half block long, similar to the canopies used at clubs, churches and residences to shelter the guests at fashionable weddings and entertainments.

Inside the canopy were rows of benches, on which the electors could rest while awaiting their time to vote. The shelter was erected by party workers in the precinct, who feared it would rain and who wished to provide for the voters' comfort.

DRYEST DAY EVER FOR ST. LOUISANS

Clubs Are Closed; Law Prohibits Even Giving Liquor Away in Dwellings.

Chief of Police Young Tuesday sent patrolmen to all clubs in the city, including the St. Louis University, Noonday, Racquet and Missouri Athletic clubs, to notify their managers and stewards that the law against selling or giving away liquor on election day must be strictly observed. The rule, if thoroughly enforced, will give St. Louis the dryest day ever seen.

According to an opinion rendered by City Counselor Walther to the Chief, it is unlawful to sell or give away liquor in any saloon, club, private dwelling or other place on election day. This applies not merely during the hours of the election, but for the entire day of 24 hours.

The only drinking any person can do without violating or causing violation of the law is to drink liquor bought on some previous day by himself.

FRANCIS BUTTONS 2 INCHES ACROSS

One Worker for Senatorial Candidate Stationed at Each Polling Place.

The workers for David R. Francis at the polling places Tuesday wore the largest campaign buttons ever used in a St. Louis election.

The button is two inches in diameter and is a fiery red, with "Vote for Francis for United States Senator," in large white letters. The button fastens to the coat lapel of the worker a six-inch white ribbon with a similar inscription.

Francis had one worker at each polling place wearing the button and ribbon. These workers in most instances stood 100 or more feet from the polling place and urged approaching voters to vote for Francis. The candidate for senator cast his own vote at 11:05 a. m. at 316 North Euclid avenue. Francis declined to say how he had voted on the senatorship.

VOTERS SCRATCH ALL AMENDMENTS

Desire to Vote Against Prohibition Affects Police Pension Plan.

The police pension amendment suffered a blow in the river wards, according to patrolmen stationed in the various polling places. Out of a total of 100 ballots cast in one precinct of the new Sixth ward only two had the no scratched. One of the ballots was cast by a city fireman and the other by a brewery salesman.

The police believe it must be due to the prohibition amendment and that many voters, to avoid making a mistake, scratch yes on all the amendments in their desire to kill the one for statewide prohibition.

Otto Pauk, secretary of the Socialist Party City Committee, sent out a statement Tuesday denying that the committee was responsible for a letter being circulated in the Fourth Justice of the Peace District asking Socialists there to vote for the Republican candidates for Justice and Constable. The Socialist party is not responsible for this attempt to influence voters, Pauk says.

MURRAY CARLETON ISSUES STATEMENT

Declares He Voted for All the Democratic Presidential Nominees.

Murray Carleton, one of the managers of the senatorial campaign, issued a second statement Tuesday to the effect that he had voted for all the regular Democratic presidential nominees from Tilden to the present time, including William Jennings Bryan the three times he was a candidate.

The Carleton statement was issued in reply to James A. Reed of Kansas City, also a candidate for Senator, who had charged that Carleton had not always been a Democrat. Carleton said that he had always been a liberal contributor to the Democratic campaign fund. He said he was reliably informed that Reed had made no contribution to the Democratic State Committee.

KANSAS CITY WILL CAST HEAVY VOTE

Town Has Only Progressive Republican Candidate in the State.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—Interest in the constitutional amendment providing for state-wide prohibition overshadowed every other consideration in the election in this city today.

The supporters of Howard F. Lea, Republican, and William P. Borland, Democrat, candidates for Congress in the Fifth District, were active in getting out a heavy vote. Lea is the only progressive Republican congressional candidate in Missouri.

HEAVY VOTE AT STATE CAPITAL

Cole County Is Expected to Go Against Prohibition.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 8.—The indications here this morning are that a heavy vote will be cast. At 9 o'clock in some wards more than one-fourth the vote had been cast.

It is expected that Cole County will give a majority of 1000 against prohibition. There will be a heavy vote in favor of the university tax amendment.

Heavy Vote in St. Joseph.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 8.—Notwithstanding threatening weather, the indications are that the vote here today will be the heaviest ever polled in St. Joseph. Voting began unusually early and interest is at a high pitch, as a result of the submission of the question of Statewide prohibition. It is conceded by the prohibitionists that St. Joseph will go strongly against the amendment.

TWELVE MEN ARE SCALDED WHEN A BOILER EXPLODES

Three Made Unconscious Are Rescued With Difficulty by Their Comrades.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Twelve men are in the hospital in Brooklyn today as a result of a boiler explosion shortly before midnight. The men were working on a dead boiler in an electric lighting plant near the water front when another boiler 10 feet away exploded, covering them with scalding water and steam. All the men were knocked down and three were made unconscious. The other nine, frightfully burned, rushed out of the boiler pit, while a score of volunteers from among the stokers in an adjoining room went to the rescue of the three who had been left behind.

The rescuers, with faces covered to protect them from the heat, dashed into the boiler room, groped quickly about in the darkness until they laid hands on the three bodies.

1000 MORE CHAUFFEURS JOIN STRIKE IN SPITE OF TRUCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Although today was expected to mark time in the strike of express company drivers and helpers owing to the apparent disposition of the labor leaders to postpone consideration of the general strike until after election, unexpected interest was injected into the sympathetic movement in aid of the strikers by the announcement that 1000 taxicab drivers had joined the strike.

This made, according to Secretary Foster of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, a total of 2300 chauffeurs on strike, despite the fact that 900 drivers, employed for the most part by smaller automobile companies which had made agreements with their men, went back to work today.

PRESIDENT IS IN CINCINNATI

Nation's Executive Arrives at Brother's Home to Cast Ballot.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 8.—President Taft arrived here at 10:30 o'clock to cast his vote in his old precinct in the O'Brienville district of Cincinnati.

The President went from the train to the home of his brother, Charles P. Taft, and planned to go to the polls later. His stay here will be limited to about five hours.

TWO MEN PREFER DEATH TO LIVING WITHOUT MONEY

One Kills Self With Revolver, Other Spends Last Nickel for Poison.

Pinned in the vest pocket of an unidentified man who shot and killed himself on a vacant lot in East St. Louis was this note, written in a steady hand on a scrap of yellow paper:

"Out of money. Can't work. Either death or over the hills. Prefer death."

The body, with a bullet wound over the right temple, was found behind a billboard at 10 p. m. Monday.

There was nothing to identify the man. All of the pockets except the one containing the note were empty, and the makers' labels had been removed from the clothing.

The man apparently was 65 years old. He was 5 feet 10 inches tall and wore a ar gray coat and vest, dark trousers, a light soft shirt and black lace shoes. The revolver was lying near his right hand. No hat was found.

Spends Last Cent for Poison.

With his throat cut and acid burns about his mouth, Henry Lindenschmidt, 52 years old, of Granite City, was found in a Missouri Pacific box car at Knox avenue Tuesday. He said he spent his last nickel for blue vitriol and generated sulphuric acid by pouring water on the crystals. At his side lay the bottle in which he had mixed the poison and in his right hand he clutched a razor.

At the City Hospital he explained that he was tired of working and spending his earnings as fast as he made them.

"I can't get ahead," he said. "This world is no place for a poor man."

It is thought he cannot recover.

Tramway Breaks; 3 Men Drown.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 8.—C. T. Thompson of Seattle, George Babcock of Clear Lake and Joe Spangler of Van Horn were drowned in the Skagit River at Van Horn, Skagit County, last night, when one of the bucket supports of an aerial tramway by which they were crossing the river broke, dropping them into the water.

PATTEN TO GIVE AWAY HIS RICHES BEFORE HIS DEATH

Wants to Do All the Good He Can—Donates $200,000 to College.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The medical school of Northwestern University today announced a gift of $200,000 from James A. Patten, the retired wheat king. Patten asks that this sum be used in tuberculosis research work. Patten's brother recently died from tuberculosis.

Patten has announced that he plans to give away all of his fortune before he dies. He said: "I can't take this money with me when I leave the world and I want to do all the good I can with it before I go. My children will be happier if they have to make their own fortune than if I left them millions."

Patten's fortune has been variously estimated at from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000.

GENERAL UPRISING IS PLANNED IN HONDURAS, IT IS REPORTED

Recent Arrivals Declare Davila's Enemies Are Combining Against Him.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—A general uprising in Honduras, with all of the old enemies of President Davila participating in the movement for his overthrow, is imminent, according to advices brought here last night by passengers on the steamer Orleanian from Ceiba and Puerto Cortez.

As indication of the preparations that are going forward for a concerted movement against Davila, Gen. Medina, former commandant at Ceiba, has gone to Amapala to consult Valladares and has been joined there by Gens. Lara and Matuty, who were prominent in the recent Nicaraguan revolution. Medina, who is a noted fighter and one of the most powerful political leaders in Honduras, only recently turned against President Davila. He was credited with crushing the Bonilla revolution last July.

Pender told the police William Van Gilder, shot and killed her. Van Gilder is under arrest in Cleveland.

NEW YORK VOTERS TRAVEL TO POLLS IN A SNOWSTORM

Light Vote Is Indicated in State as a Result of Inclement Weather.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—More than a million and a half voters who will register their choice for all the State and congressional offices in New York State today traveled to the polls over roads white with snow.

Snow was falling this morning in every part of the State except the northern counties. The storm of last night had ceased in Washington, Franklin, Hamilton, St. Lawrence and Saratoga counties, but many towns in this district sent word of bad roads and threatening weather.

According to some of the Democratic leaders, however, such conditions this year cannot be characterized Democratic weather as truthfully as usual. Both the big parties this year are depending on a big rural vote, and John A. Dix, the Democratic candidate for Governor, has made a special appeal to the farmers.

Early news from up State indicated a light vote. The western part of the State and the southern tier of counties were buried under a blanket of snow that at Jamestown reached a foot in depth. In some places as the sun rose higher the snow changed to a drizzling rain, more discouraging to the reluctant voter than ever.

In New York City the day opened with a light fall of snow that soon changed to rain and toward 11 o'clock ceased, although the skies were still lowering. The early voting was light except in Harlem and the lower part of the Bronx, where 25 per cent of the electors had marked their ballots by 9 o'clock. In the residence districts the average vote during the first hour was between 25 and 30 per cent.

The morning passed with no marked disturbances at the polls. Among the watchers were 50 women who had been stationed at the polls by the Republican Volunteer Watchers' Association. They belonged to the woman suffrage organizations. One of them was Miss Maude Ingersoll, daughter of the late Robert G. Ingersoll. She was on duty in Charles F. Murphy's assembly district.

LATHAM SUCCEEDS IN DARING FLIGHT ABOVE BALTIMORE

Aviator Remains in Air for 42 Minutes, Circles Around Skyscrapers and Thrills Invalid With Special Evolutions, Performed for His Benefit.

BUILDING TOPS USED BY MANY SPECTATORS

Tuesday Program Gives Opportunity to Birdmen Whose Machines Were Demolished by Recent Storm—Weather Fair.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—The most daring aeroplane flight ever made in America was that of Hubert Latham above Baltimore yesterday, according to the birdmen gathered at aviation field here.

A broken wire or a failure of the motor at any stage of the flight meant almost certain death as the aeroplane was above the roofs of the city with no chance of making a landing with a disabled machine.

Wins $5000 Newspaper Prize.

The incentive was a prize of $5000 offered by the Sun and Evening Sun for a trip over a prescribed route from and returning to the aviation field. Latham was to follow the course of the Patapsco River to Fort Henry, thence up the inner harbor to and around the Sun Building, east to the city limits a mile north, west to Druid Hill Park, down Charles street to Baltimore and then southwest to the aviation field.

There was to be a short detour for the benefit of Ross Winans, a wealthy invalid, who, unable to leave his home, offered $500 if Latham would come within his range of vision. All this Latham accomplished. He varied his altitude from 400 to 2000 feet and had to contend with wind blowing from seven to 15 miles an hour. He used his 50-horsepower Antoinette and was in the air 42 minutes, making no stop after leaving the field.

All the tall buildings in the downtown section were covered by thousands who sought viewpoints to witness the flight of the airman, and by noon every roof top was black with people. At 12 o'clock the whole city seemed to stop work and begin watching. Some minutes later word came that Latham had started.

Borne by the breeze, which aided him greatly, Latham flew straight for Fort McHenry, and when almost directly over it he curved and heading in a northwesterly direction, steered for the skyscraper district. Arriving over Baltimore street, near Calvert street, he made another turn and was off for Patterson Park.

Gives Exhibition for Invalid.

His trip to Patterson Park was a brief one, and soon he was headed northwest for Druid Hill Park. Here he met with head winds, and, circling the edge of the park, turned toward Charles street. Curving round the Belvidere Hotel, he flew to about the line of Calvert street, and there some 2000 feet in the air performed a series of evolutions for the benefit of Winans. Then he headed for the skyscraper district again. Over the Sun Building he wheeled westward, and near the edge of the city bore away southwest for the aviation field.

There were real competitions at the aviation field yesterday. Here again Latham came to the front by winning first in the duration and also in the distance contests. Count Jacques de Lesseps, in his Bleriot, took second prize in the altitude and duration trials, and J. Armstrong Drexel, sailing in a Bleriot, won the first prize for altitude. His record was 1886 feet, while Count de Lesseps scored 1722 feet.

Besides the regular flights for altitude, duration and distance scheduled to take place this afternoon, the program includes a cross-country flight. This will be to some designated place, probably Fort Carroll, in the Patapsco River, and return, the aviator making the best time winning the prize.

New Flyers to Compete.

Every machine is said to be in flying shape which will permit several of the airmen to be seen in the official flights for the first time. These are Radley, the Englishman, whose Bleriot monoplane was so badly damaged in Thursday night's storm; Ely, the American, whose Curtiss biplane was practically demolished, and Hoxsey, American, who suffered a mishap to his Baby Wright yesterday in attempting to land at the aviation field after a cross-country flight from the railroad station, where he had assembled his machine. Ely has a new machine, fresh from the factory. The other two expect to have their planes ready for action this afternoon.

The weather this morning was more favorable for flying than at the same hour yesterday. The wind was light, about five miles, and the temperature was 42 degrees.

YOUTH WEDS HIS GUARDIAN

WELLSTON, O., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Sarah Stewart, 49 years old, married James Turner, 20 years old, her adopted son, here yesterday. As guardian of the young man, Mrs. Stewart first appeared before the license clerk and signed the necessary permission for a minor to marry. The bridegroom was adopted by Mrs. Stewart when he was a baby.

He received a good education and when he grew up he decided that he could not do better than enter into a closer relation with the woman who had cared for him all his life.

Miss E. Lilian Todd Proves Success of Passenger Carrying Machine.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Miss E. Lilian Todd flew to a high seat in the aviation hall of fame at Garden City late Monday afternoon when she sent aloft her biplane, the only flying machine ever invented and built by a woman.

There was too much wind for any of the men machines to venture aloft, but one of the distinctive claims for Miss Todd's invention is that it is not a mere toy and when she was ready weather couldn't hold her back.

The trial disclosed the need of minor adjustments, but it covered the length of the field, a turn and back to the starting point, at a height of 20 feet, and proved that the machine is a real flyer.

Did Not Fly Herself.

Miss Todd did not herself make the ascent. She might have done it and perhaps accomplished rather more, but she was too busy otherwise. The final inspection of the machine fell to her and she had to look after a large company of men and women admirers invited by her to witness the trial.

To them she had to explain the difference between her work and that of others and to point out to them during the flight the superior merits of her model. When the trial was finished they cheered D. Masson, the aviator who had made the trip, and crowded around Miss Todd with congratulations.

Every part of the machine even to the motor is the invention of Miss Todd who has been at work on it for four years.

Not a Suffragette.

Miss Todd was at one time the private secretary of Mrs. Russell Sage, which accounts in part for the confidence of that philanthropist in her. She is short, gray haired, alert and full of vitality. When she started to build a flying machine she became so much interested in everything pertaining to aviation that she joined the Aero Club and organized the Junior Aero Club, which held meetings and conducted experiments on her studio roof and developed much youthful talent in this line.

"I am not a suffragette," she said to emphasize the purely scientific interest she has taken in aviation, "but I decided long ago that if a man can fly a woman can, just as she can sail or drive or run an automobile as well as he. I expect my machine to go easily 40 miles an hour, and it will be built for sociability, with a comfortable seat always for a passenger or two."

OFFERS KINLOCH PARK FREE TO ARMY FOR AEROPLANE SCHOOL

Aero Club Also Willing to Transport Soldeirs From Jefferson Barracks Gratis.

The free use of the Kinloch Park aviation field as a school for aviators in the United States Army will be proffered to the Government by Albert Bond Lambert, president of the St. Louis Aero Club. The offer followed a report that Brig-Gen. James Allen, chief of the Signal Corps, will recommend to Congress the purchase of 20 aeroplanes.

The further offer will be made to transport soldiers from Jefferson Barracks, who may be needed during the tests, to the field and back without cost to the Government. In addition, Lambert was empowered by the Board of Governors of the club Monday night to offer a prize of $20,000 in cash to the domestic or foreign manufacturer of aeroplanes who first demonstrates at Kinloch Park the practicability of his machine to the satisfaction of the United States Government.

The Aero Club of St. Louis is the only organization of the kind in the United States which owns its own aviation field.

FLIGHT FROM STEAMSHIP IS TO BE TRIED SATURDAY

McCurdy to Make New York World and Post-Dispatch Experiment Sooner Than Expected Because of Other Contracts.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The now famous experiment, planned by the New York World and Post-Dispatch, and by which J. A. D. McCurdy will endeavor to prove that an aeroplane can arise from the deck of a steamship far out at sea and then make a successful flight to land, will be attempted next Saturday. It had been planned to make the flight from the Amerika, Nov. 24, but McCurdy's contracts prevented.

A consultation was held with the management of the Hamburg-American line, the company which owns the Amerika, and the Pennsylvania, a vessel scheduled to sail from this port Saturday, was substituted.

The hour of departure had been set for 2 o'clock on the afternoon of that day, but when it was explained to General Manager Boas that this would be too late for the test, the sailing hour was advanced to noon, which will give to the aviator a wider margin wherein to make his long sea flight by daylight.

The Pennsylvania is one of the biggest of the slower vessels in the Transatlantic service. She has no pretentions to great speed, her habitual gait being only about sixteen knots, but her great size and steadiness makes the vessel well adapted for an experiment of this nature.

The launching platform, which is to be transferred to her spacious afterdeck, will be installed under the supervision of Glenn H. Curtiss, who today said that nothing but a dense fog or hard gale would prevent McCurdy from making the flight Saturday. President Taft, having rescinded permission obtained from officials of the Navy Department by which two of the five torpedo boat destroyers in this port were to have accompanied the aerial flyer for purposes of observation and of rescue in case of accident, other arrangements have now been made both for observation and for rescue.

To patrol the course the World and Post-Dispatch have chartered tugs and in order to provide the best accommodations for the official observers and for guests, the steam yacht, Wild Duck, will be at the papers' disposal for the day.

Invitations have been issued to Rear Admiral Leutze, commandant of the New York Navy Yard; to Major-General Grant, commanding the Department of the East, and to about a score of other army and navy officers. Invitations also have been sent to an equal number of civilians who are known to be interested in aeronautics or in army or navy enterprises.

3 NUNS GO TO COURT AND ARE MADE UNITED STATES CITIZENS

Swear Allegiance and Smilingly Declare They Do Not Favor Polygamy.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Three nuns, members of the Congregation of Perpetual Adoration, took the oath of allegiance to the United States District Court today. They are Marie Kamp, born in Holland; Rachelina Maresca of Italy and Severina de Giovanni of Sicily. They came to the United States in 1900.

The oath of allegiance was administered to the nuns in Justice Barnard's chambers, although their answers to the routine questions were given in open court. The sisters took the proceedings seriously until they were asked if they believed in polygamy, which made them smile as they answered in the negative.

The clerk of the court arranged for the application for citizenship and respected the vow of the nuns to live cloistered lives, but Justice Barnard required that they appear in court.

PAVLOWA'S ART AND MORDKIN'S A RARE DELIGHT

Russian Dancers Enrapture a Big and Brilliant Odeon Audience.

AN EVENING OF CHARM

Youth and Love, in the Joy of Living, Embodied Across the Footlights.

TWO GREAT RUSSIAN DANCERS WHO APPEARED AT ODEON LAST NIGHT

ANNA PAVLOWA AND MIKAIL MORDKIN

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

THERE were moments at the Odeon last night when it seemed that the spirit of Poetry and Youth incarnate made visible to human eyes the joy of living as that joy is felt by glad souls that are capable of its expression through a medium more facile to fairies than to earthfolk of this world's ordinary ken.

The agents of this exquisite revelation were an ethereal young woman of incredible grace and slender loveliness and the most masculinely beautiful young man that the stage has even seen.

Their names were Anna Pavlowa and Mikail Mordkin, and the occasion was their first St. Louis appearance in an exposition of the dance so complete in all the attributes of visual charm that it will never be forgotten by those fortunate enough to have witnessed it.

They are of Russia, this marvelous two, and they came almost like creations of enchantment from the magic of the old far East into the realistic vision of the new Far West. They headed a company of dancers especially trained for the delight of what is perhaps the most picturesquely Oriental court and aristocracy known since the days of Haroun-al-Raschid and the times when the occult powers of spell-woven carpets and Genii-fashioned wishing rings and lamps made all things possible to a younger and happier generation than this.

In honor of their coming the Odeon was crowded to its every wall by the biggest and most brilliant gathering of fashion and distinction ever seen within its doors. Not a seat was unoccupied; the boxes were one vast semi-circle of women and men in evening clothes; the balcony was an overhanging swarm of bee-like humanity, and as many more as could safely be admitted stood throughout the performance, so absorbed in its appeal to the beauty-loving eye as to be oblivious to fatigue.

It was not in the distinctively national Russian dances of the night that Pavlowa and Mordkin most eminently commended themselves to the favor of their Odeon audience.

These dances of the Slav peasantry, picturesque though they be, are in their essentials uncouth and at times grotesque, marked in the main by boisterous stamping of the feet, vigorous gyrations of the body, a curveting and plunging of the limbs borrowed more from the prancing of high-spirited horses than from exercises of grace designed for the best expression of human physical movement.

Nor yet were Pavlowa and Mordkin seen in their highest art achievement in the dramatic pantomime of the Arabian Nights ballet, "The Legend of Aryiade," with which their program opened. This was a masterly offering, presented with an emotional intensity and keenly histrionic intelligence that eliminated all necessity for words in the telling of its story, yet, as I have just said, it was not the evening's crowning attainment in art.

The three unforgetable events of the night—and they must needs be linked together in one's thought always—were the ravishingly effective Pavlowa and Mordkin blend of grace, beauty and youth in a little dance of woodland love; the "young Greek god" impression of Mordkin in his chastely classic Bow Dance, an amazing succession of supple bodily movements and statuesque poses, and the perfect charm of Pavlowa in The Swan, a little dance of the uttermost artistry set to the accompaniment of Saint-Saens' musical dreaming along the lines suggested by such a theme.

Never before have I seen a St. Louis audience so finely discriminative of supreme beauty as in last night's appreciation of the first-named of these three exquisite dances.

Yet would it have been strange indeed if the house had not surrendered utterly to its irresistible appeal.

The two dancers seemed to float with fairy lightness through the elfin and yet hot-bloodedly human measures set for their bodily utterance of the rapture of Love's young dream under the greenwood tree.

There were ecstatic instants when Mordkin, rising, feather-like, in the air, swept his beautiful person toward Pavlowa in flying curves of indescribable gracefulness, coming to earth but for a breath of time, again to rise in his vision-delighting pursuit of the beloved maiden of Pavlowa's flawless embodying.

As for Pavlowa herself, she seemed almost an intangible thing, yet potently sexual, a sort of transcendental young womanhood, glowing with enticement, winged with coquetry, the dream of a young man's dreaming made real in mocking, but at the same time inviting flesh and blood.

And, precisely as Mordkin, urged by Love's ardor, occasionally spurned the earth with his impatient feet, so, too, did Pavlowa now and then touched by the outstretched fingers of the young man, rise as if with wings, feeling apparently no weight of clogging mortality in her incredibly attuned and wholesomely perfect young body. Once or twice, lifted in the ecstacy of capture by her pursuer, she rose high in the air above his head, poised in his steady hand as if about to fly. I have never seen so beautiful and well-nigh incredible a living picture as was then presented.

Nor have I ever heard applause more spontaneous, more uncontrollable, more utterly unreserved, than then swept over the Odeon time and time again, seeming never to tire of its acclaim of perfect art. So irresistible was this applause that the two young dancers, wonderful in sustained effort, repeated the dance that had so captivated its audience—and without the faintest diminishing of its astonishing lightness and gossamer-like grace.

In his Bow Dance, his body tunic-clad, his sun-browned arms and legs bare, every movement that of the perfect, young masculine animal of the open life, Modkin embodies the primal archer of the days when male youth was the youth of the hunt and the splendid quest of lone adventure in a primitive world.

Splendidly does he realize such a picture. His beautiful eagle face, with keen, ardent eyes under the straightest of brows, a delicately curved nose, a mouth of the most engaging smilefulness, yet grim and tragic when occasion demands, is not in the least the heavy Slav face of his people. It is, rather, the Arab face of the Siberian steppes, ancient, despite its youthful fire, the relentlessly handsome face of the desert Bedouin sheik, perfect in its slender Oriental contour and amazingly virile. The dance is a movement of the unreserved expression of graceful young strength in the free life of the forest, and it was so masterfully done by Mordkin as to enrapture its beholders.

Pavlowa in The Swan remains in one's memory as the supremest poetic vision of the night.

In her every bodily utterance she visualized, strangely but undeniably, the most graceful and beautiful thing of all the feathered creation, her audience following her with eyes that almost denied the perfection of that which they saw.

When, at the last, The Swan dancer sinks to earth and then, slowly settling down precisely as might some stricken God-plumaged creature, finally lies prostrate in piteous death, a momentary hush follows the completion of the astonishing picture. And then, last night, came a storm of applause that made the Odeon ring to its echoes, never ceasing until Pavlowa had come many times to the footlights to bow her acknowledgements.

The support rendered by the members of the Imperial Russian Ballet was admirable, and the work of the orchestra, selected from Metropolitan Opera House players and under the direction of Theodore Stier, conductor of the Bechstein Hall Symphony Orchestra, London, was an unceasing delight.

"THE DOLLAR PRINCESS."

The unusually enthusiastic first night audience at the Olympic Theater last evening liked "The Dollar Princess" so well, that encores were demanded for almost every number, until the performance was prolonged until near the midnight hour. And there was no restless shuffling of feet or arranging of hats before the final curtain, as is sometimes manifest in an over-long performance. This, it seems to me, is a better testimonial of the play's worth than anything that one person might say.

"The Dollar Princess" is a fitting successor to "The Merry Widow," of which it is often remindful. In orchestration and concerted numbers this new play equals anything we have heard in the musical comedy line and, while lacking the popular music of the "Merry Widow" waltz fame, it possesses more of genuine melody and harmony that the Franz Lehar play. Donald Brian, who helped to sing the Lehar comedy into popular favor, has the Freddy Smythe role in the new play, and makes of it much the same character as the Prince Danilo of "The Merry Widow."

With Daisy Le May and Donald Brian singing the "Inspection" and "Typewriting" duets, with the challenge to the dance, one's mind inadvertently turns to "The Merry Widow" and comparisons are quite naturally drawn, and here only is the new musical play weaker than its predecessor. In everything but the waltz it surpasses the older play.

Daisy Le May, who sings the title part, is an exceptionally winsome, willowy girl, with a voice of velvety quality and silvery sweetness. Hilda Vining is a pleasing bogus countess, with one of the play's principal solo numbers, "Love, Love;" Zena Curzon is heard to best advantage in the duet with F. Pope Stamper, "Reminiscence," one of the play's most delightful lighter numbers. Edward Connelly, Albert Hart and Will West furnish most of the comedy and it is so clean and wholesome as to be really refreshing.

The augmented orchestra, under the leadership of Harold Vicars (who modestly places his name at the back of the play bill) is really the distinguishing feature of "The Dollar Princess" to one who is a lover of music. The orchestration and concerted numbers in the finale of the first and second acts should keep "The Dollar Princess" on the boards for many seasons, even after the tuneful song numbers have grown old. They should assure a royal welcome during its two weeks' stay at the Olympic.

CONDUCTOR FALLS DEAD SOON AFTER TRAIN KILLS MAN

Succumbs to Heart Disease After First Fatal Accident in 40 Years.

UNNERVED BY SHOCK

Aged Railroad Man Hoped to Complete Life Without Fatality in Business.

Lorenzo D. Hopkins of 4124 Delmar boulevard, Missouri Pacific conductor, was so shocked and grieved when his train killed a man Monday that within an hour he died of heart failure. It was the first fatal accident that had occurred in connection with the operation of one of his trains in the 40 years that he had been a conductor.

Naturally of a sensitive and sympathetic temperament, it was a source of great satisfaction to him that he had escaped the distressing accidents that fall to the experience of railroad men, and it was his hope that he would be able to round out his career without a single person having been killed by his train.

The accident which was the direct cause of one death and the indirect cause of another, occurred near Florence, Mo. Clause Pregge, a farmer, was driving across the track at a curve. The train was almost upon him before the engineer saw him and the speed could not be checked. The horse was killed. Pregge was thrown down an embankment. The train was stopped and Hopkins ran back. Pregge was not dead, but he died an hour later in Otterville.

Fell in Aisle of Train.

At about the same time, Conductor Hopkins was starting through the train as it left Warrensburg to collect tickets. Opposite the seat of the Rev. T. L. Thompson, pastor of the First Christian Church of Jefferson City, he clutched at his breast, tottered and fell dead in the aisle.

J. A. Baker, the brakeman, took charge of the train and ran it to Pleasant Hill, where the body of the conductor was taken off. It will be brought to St. Louis Tuesday.

Conductor Hopkins lived with his daughter, Effie, and his son, Henry Hopkins. He was 66 years old and was a Civil War veteran. He had at different times been division superintendent at St. Louis and at Sedalia.

MRS. NELSON LECTURES ON HOW TO MAKE FINE SOUP

Women and Girls Watch Her Prepare Dishes in Edwardsville High School.

Mrs. N. O. Nelson, wife of a wealthy manufacturer and philanthropist, gave a soup talk to the members of the Edwardsville Domestic Science Club at the Edwardsville High School Tuesday.

The 28 members of the club, the girls of the high school and a number of members of women's clubs, heard the talk and saw the accompanying demonstration of the way to prepare the first course on the bill of fare.

An electric cooking apparatus had been provided in the Domestic Science room of the school building, and Mrs. Nelson used as many kilowatts as she required in the preparation of puree of navy beans, mock turtle, split pea and vegetable soup.

The Nelsons make their home in Leclaire, a suburb of Edwardsville, and Mrs. Nelson is active in club and improvement work. It is expected that she will follow the soup talk with lectures on the proper preparation of the other articles which come between soup and nuts on a model menu.

ACTOR CONVINCED THAT CRIPPEN'S WIFE WAS SLAIN

East Chicago Man Scoffs at Story That She Is in Hiding Near There.

CHICAGO Nov. 8.—Bruce Miller of East Chicago, friend of Belle Elmore, the actress wife of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, who is under sentence of death in London for murdering his wife, takes no stock in the story that the woman is alive. Miller appeared as a witness in the Crippen trial to disprove the accusation that he was unduly friendly with Mrs. Crippen.

"It's a canard, pure and simple," said Miller, last night. "Crippen had cast insinuations that I might know the whereabouts of his wife, and I went to London to prove that I had not seen the woman for more than six years. She had two of my pictures in her room, but there was no attempt to conceal friendship for both me and Mrs. Miller.

"While the evidence was only circumstantial, it was conclusive, and no fair-minded individual who heard the testimony could have the slightest doubt about the indentity of the slain woman. I am sure that we are the only persons she knew in this vicinity, and it is certain she would not come here without visiting us.

"No, there's nothing to it. Some other woman must be impersonating the slain actress. If attorney F. T. Tobin thinks he has found her, it would be an easy matter to have me identify her; but she is dead. You may rest assured on that.

"I went over on the same ship with Theresa Hun, her sister. With Inspector Dew, I went to the Crippen residence and identified my pictures. I told him everything, the same as I testified. There was nothing to conceal. She is not alive. Crippen's guilt was fully established.

FEET HORNY AS TOADS

Callouses Are Painful and Unsightly, Easily Removed.

Many people permit horny callouses on the feet to continue and grow thicker month after month until they press on the nerves and cause intense pain, and give the feet a most repulsive appearance. Callouses can be promptly removed by the following simple treatment: Soak the feet from ten to fifteen minutes in a basin of hot water in which two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound has been dissolved. This immediately draws out all soreness and shrinks the callous so it can easily be peeled off, and leaves the feet delightfully fresh and comfortable. It may be necessary to repeat this for several nights for a complete cure. The results of this treatment are really remarkable. Calocide compound is a strictly scientific preparation, well known to doctors. Any good druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Twenty-five cents buys sufficient quantity to put the worst feet in fine condition. Why should any one suffer? It is equally effective for corns, bunions, sweatty smelling feet, tender swollen feet and ingrown nails. —ADV.

FRANCIS WEARY AT THE CLOSE OF HIS CAMPAIGN

Senatorial Candidate Delivers an Address in the Thirteenth Ward.

FAY DIRECTS MEETING

Speaker Denounces Special Interests' Activity in the Republican Party.

David R. Francis closed his campaign for the Senatorship with a speech at Kleekamp's Hall in the Thirteenth Ward Monday night. Herman W. Fay, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, was in charge of the meeting.

Abaut 500 voters of the Eleventh and Thirteenth Wards attended the meeting. The hall was well filled, and Francis received an enthusiastic reception. The meeting was made up principally of his supporters in South St. Louis, and arrangements were made to give him all the time he wished to speak. He spoke for more than an hour, and appeared to be worn out from the five months' campaign, in which he said he had visited 90 counties and made 250 speeches. His face was flushed and he looked weary.

In keeping with his statement that he would not allow any other senatorial candidate than Francis to speak at his meeting, Fay had all of his vice-presidents decorated with Francis buttons and badges and Francis lithographs posted in every corner of the room. Francis was escorted to the meeting by Edward F. Goltra, the friend of the senatorial candidate, who contributed the money to the Democratic City Committee which Chairman Fay told the Post-Dispatch won the organization's support for Francis. Thomas H. Francis, brother of the candidate, was seated on the platform.

Denounces Special Interests.

In the early part of his speech Francis spoke of the advantages the great interests of the country have gained by reason of their contributions to the Republican campaign fund. He said there was a combination of special, financial and transportation interests seeking to control the Government to their own advantage.

Toward the close of his address Francis said:

"No man will ever dare stand before me and insinuate that I have been recreant to a trust imposed in me. There have been insinuations made and charges also. I believe there is a newspaper in this town that has been publishing them. I don't want to make any threats, but I am investigating and will see what has been said. I have never criticised my distinguished opponent—there are only two men in this race and by tomorrow night I think there will be only one.

"I have been accused of using money in this campaign. I have heard that for 30 years. In every successful contest I have made it has been charged that I bought it. I made a statement in the public prints this morning that I will make a sworn statement to the Legislature of all the money spent by me, or under my directions or with my knowledge. The charge was made that I used money in obtaining an office when I didn't have much money—I don't know whether I would have much now if all my debts were paid.

"I defy any man to find where any money has been improperly expended in my interest, or by myself, or by anybody under my direction. I defy any man to show where I have ever used money improperly for anything in this world.

"I believe there has been some insinuation made that I had been recreant to a trust in me as president of the World's Fair.

Started to Investigate.

"I started home to investigate, but before I could get here the Board of Directors of the World's Fair met and gave the lie to the charges. About one hundred and thirty merchants joined in a protest against the newspaper making the charges, declaring that such unwarranted attacks discouraged civic pride. No more serious charge could be made against a newspaper. If you don't have civic pride grass will grow in your streets. What do you think of a paper that will attack men so as to deter others from taking part in civic work?

"I don't have to defend myself from attacks from any source, and certainly not from such a source as that."

Francis made a plea for Democrats to support the entire State and city tickets. Several of the Democratic candidates spoke at the meeting. Among them were Judge Sale, William H. Allen and James B. Conroy. Francis indorsed the police and teachers' pension fund amendments and the amendment providing a 3-mill tax for the maintenance of the State University. He reiterated his opposition to amendment No. 10. He closed his speech with a plea for voters to support him at the polls.

Corns removed in 3 minutes with Dr. Woofter's Corn and Bunion Remedy.

LAW BARS AGED ALIENS FROM U. S., PARTS A FAMILY

Officials Forced to Return Couple Who Worked Hard for Passage Money.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Ellis Island will remember the case of Franz Lohn and his wife, German-Hungarians, as a peculiar example of how the letter of the law as applied to immigrants may work heartrending hardships.

The aged couple have two daughters living in Passaic, N. J., and it was their intention to join their children when they journeyed to Hamburg, Germany, and bought a ticket to America.

But the man who sold them the ticket put them on a steamer which landed them in Buenos Ayres. With no funds, they spent a year at hard manual labor on a ranch, earning enough for passage to New York. A week ago they arrived again here penniless.

The immigration officials said immediately they could not land because they were likely to become public charges. The pleadings of the two daughters availed nothing, and the only question which remained was, "Should they go back to Argentina or to Hamburg?" The law says specifically that the line which brings over an undesirable alien shall take him back. The daughters offered to pay the passage to Germany, but the law was inflexible, and the couple are now aboard a steamer sailing back to Argentina.

TWO PARALYZED AT CORNELL BY THE NEW DISEASE

Freshmen Students Discovered to Be Suffering With Plague and Sent to Hospital.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The first two cases of infantile paralysis in this city have appeared in the Cornell Infirmary, R. L. Solomon and R. B. Scofield, members of the freshmen class at Cornell University, being the victims. One of Solomon's legs and Scofield's right arm are paralyzed.

It was thought at first that Solomon, who has been playing on the freshman football squad, was suffering from an injury sustained in a practice game, but the doctors later discovered the true nature of the disease. The two are now in an isolated ward, and great care is being taken to prevent the disease spreading among the students of the university.

Infantile Paralysis Kills Girl.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 8.—Marie, the 20-year-old daughter of Judge and Mrs. Quincy A. Myers, died last night after a week's illness of infantile paralysis. This is the fourth death here from this disease in two weeks and there are at present more than 20 cases in the city. Judge Myers is a member of the Indiana Supreme Court.

Tax Assessor Killed for a Deer.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 8.—When A. D. Chappel, member of a party hunting deer near Fort Worth yesterday, saw a movement in a clump of bushes as of approaching game, he opened fire. Thomas Johnson, Tax Assessor of Coke County, who was driving the game, received the full charge of shot, death resulting instantly.

OUT-OF-ORDER STOMACHS FEEL FINE AFTER TAKING A LITTLE DIAPEPSIN.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour undigested food, Nausea, Headache, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrify in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.—ADV.

The Saint Louis POST-DISPATCH

The Great Daily of the Mississippi Valley

Holds unchallenged supremacy in circulation, commercial advertising and classified advertising.

It is in a class by itself.

Competition is not near enough to make it interesting.

Here is a record of legitimate paid commercial and classified advertising carried by the St. Louis newspapers for the first

10 Months of 1910

The Reasons for this overwhelming preference for the POST-DISPATCH by all advertisers are

Because it sells more papers in St. Louis than there are homes in this western metropolis.

Because it combines high character with quantity of circulation.

Because it does not carry objectionable medical, fake financial, or get-rich-quick advertising.

Because there are only five Sunday newspapers in the United States that equal its legitimate Sunday paid circulation.

Constipation

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascarets I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you, I am free from all that this morning. # SOCIETY NEWS

MRS. THEODORE BENOIST will be hostess to the Misses Sophie Fishback, Malotte Houser, Virginia Zelbig, Miriam Benoist, Mary Turner, Lucille Cates, Helen Bonsack, Grace Price, Harriet La Motte, Louise Nugent, Cora South Brown, Fanny Brown and others who took part in the amateur play, "Mrs. Spencer's House Party," at the Woman's Club last Friday evening, at a unique theater party to be given at the Garrick Theater in honor to Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Dixey (Marie Nordstrom).

Mr. and Mrs. Dixey, who were married shortly after their joint appearance in St. Louis in "The Man on the Box," are interested in amateur theatricals and have given material encouragement to this form of entertainment, before and since their marriage. It is probable that they will allow Mrs. Benoist the use of "The Naked Truth" for performances to be given by St. Louis debutantes. The farcical comedy is adaptable to a society presentation, having for the characters the smart set of the Oranges in New Jersey. The gowns are said to be of great beauty.

Ursula Marie Dixey, 8 months old, will visit St. Louis for the first time next week. Mr. and Mrs. Dixey will be extensively entertained during their engagement here.

An interesting recital will be given by the members of the Young Ladies' Mission of St. John's M. E. Church South at the Wednesday Club auditorium next Tuesday.

David Bispham will be the soloist and will give a program of songs, ancient and modern, and a recitation to music in English. Harry M. Gilbert will be at the piano. Dr. Leon Harrison will perform the ceremony. On account of the illness of Mrs. Friedman, the bridegroom's mother, the ceremony will be in St. Louis. Lester Friedman will be best man for his brother, and Miss Oppenheimer will have Miss Irene Schloss of Memphis as her maid of honor. Only the immediate relatives will witness the ceremony. Mr. Friedman and his bride will go to housekeeping at 5500 Waterman avenue after a bridal journey.

MAN WHO FORGETS TRUMPS IN BRIDGE INSANE, IS CONTENTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—As a proof that William F. Creerand, who published Creerand's Cloak Journal, was mentally incompetent to make a will, it was testified before Surrogate Thomas that the publisher often forgot what was trumps while playing bridge. Also he went back through the turned tricks to see what cards had been played.

Katherine Diver, a nurse at Mount Sinai Hospital and a friend of the Creerands, testified that after a quarrel Creerand had with his wife on last Thanksgiving day in which Mrs. Creerand struck him in the face, his demeanor changed. He became moody and forgetful.

"He was very fond of playing cards," the nurse said, "and nearly every time I visited his house there would be a game of bridge. After that Thanksgiving day he seemed to lose his ability to play. He kept forgetting what was trump and kept looking over the tricks to see what was in them."

The trial will be continued today.

POST-DISPATCH CONTEST WINNER TO BE U. S. CADET

Brooks Summers of East St. Louis Is Appointed to West Point.

Brooks Summers of East St. Louis, who was sent to Washington at the time of the inauguration of President Taft as one of the winners in a voting contest conducted by the Post-Dispatch, has received an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point from Congressman William A. Rodenberg. He will go to Annapolis, Md., Tuesday night, where he will attend a preparatory school until he takes his entrance examinations in January.

Summers is 21 years old and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Summers of 3129 Bond avenue. He was graduated from the East St. Louis High School last June and for two years was in command of the High School cadets, last year ranking as major and the year previous as captain.

Summers says the military has always appealed to him and that he was eager to go to West Point. He is the first appointee from East St. Louis in 10 years.

HEARS NOISES, FIRES TWO SHOTS AND BRINGS POLICEMEN

Gignoux Declares That Help Did Not Come for Twenty Minutes.

Claude W. Gignoux of 3664 Page boulevard heard a noise at the back door at 1 a. m. Friday. It sounded as though someone were trying to force the lock.

There was also a sound as if someone were walking about in the leaves in the rear yard.

Gignoux opened his bedroom window and fired two shots. He says it was 20 minutes before policemen came, and there was then no trace of a burglar.

The Gignoux home is across the street from the residence of Banker George W. Wilson, whose wife was intimidated and robbed by a burglar 10 days ago.

PUPILS STICK TO FRATS; FIRED

Students Expelled for Not Renouncing Secret Societies.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The war which the local Board of Education is waging against high-school fraternities has reached a climax with the expulsion of 64 out of 584 students in the high school. Their expulsion followed their refusal to sign a paper renouncing present or future membership in secret high school organizations. Twenty-nine of those standing out against the board are girls.

The expelled ones have engaged an attorney and will make a test case of the matter.

YOU SURELY MUST TRY THIS WHEN YOU HAVE A SEVERE COLD OR THE GRIPPE.

The most severe cold will be broken, and all grippe misery ended after taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel all disagreeable symptoms leaving after the very first dose.

The most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress vanishes.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.—ADV.

REORGANIZATION & EXPANSION SALE

Wednesday "La Vogue" Garment Day

"La Vogue" Coats and Suits Are Controlled by Us for St. Louis

This Great Reorganization and Expansion Sale MEANS MORE THAN the closing out of all stocks on hand. It means that we must take over the surplus stocks of the manufacturers whose lines we control for St. Louis if we would control them for the other cities where we are going to locate. THESE MANUFACTURERS look to us—EXPECT us to relieve them of their heavy surplus. Of course we couldn't refuse to take their merchandise, and run a chance of losing control of them. BUT with unusually large stocks which we must force out before January 1st, we could not take on additional heavy lots except at most ridiculous reductions. Therefore this great lot comes to us at price concessions which enable us to offer

TWO LANGUAGES USED IN MAKING AMERICAN STATE

Interpreters Busiest Men at New Mexico Constitutional Convention.

ACTION IS RETARDED

Americans Would Abolish Spanish Judges Who Don't Know English.

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 8.—They are making a constitution for a new state here, making it in English and Spanish. Although New Mexico has been an American territory since 1850, so many of the delegates to the Constitutional Convention are unacquainted with the English language that three interpreters are kept busy on the floor all the time, running from one delegate to another, telling the delegates what the Americans are talking about.

Every speech that is made and every document that is presented has to be translated for the benefit of some of the members. Every morning copies of the measures taken up the day before, printed in English and Spanish, are placed on the desks of the members. The Speaker always announces in referring a document to a committee that it will be translated and printed, meaning that it will be translated into Spanish and printed in both languages.

But for all that, the make-up of the Constitutional Convention appears to be above the average of the territory lawmaking bodies. The criticism has been offered that there are perhaps more Americans in the body than the percentage of Americans in the territory would warrant.

The three interpreters are the busiest men at the convention. Sometimes when there is rapid action on the floor and the Americans are doing a good deal of talking, there are not enough interpreters to go around, and the new State delegates who do not understand the language of the new State are compelled to take their turns getting second-hand enlightenment through the interpreters.

One of the delegates who is said to need an interpreter to tell him what the Americans are talking about, is the Probate Judge of Santa Fe County.

Spaniards in the Courts.

The Probate Court is an institution wholly New Mexican. Most of the probate judges are Mexicans, notwithstanding that most of the business is done for Americans. The judgeships are parceled out as a part of the Spanish patronage. There is complaint against the continuation of the courts. In many counties, if an American has business with the court, it is necessary to take an interpreter along. There is dissatisfaction that natives who cannot speak or understand English should act upon the wills of Americans and as guardians of the orphan children of Americans. The demand is that the probate courts be abolished and their work done by the county courts.

It is perhaps needless to say that the Mexican probate judges in the constitutional convention who cannot speak or understand English are in favor of the continuation of the probate courts.

It is partly due to the bi-lingual composition of the convention that it has taken the delegates four weeks to adopt the preamble to the constitution, consisting of something like sixteen words. It is doubtful whether the convention will finish its work in the 60 days for which the members will draw pay.

The convention has decided against the initiative and adopted a form of referendum that is not objectionable to the corporations.

The convention has decided to stand pat on the boundary dispute with Texas. The 103d meridian is the boundary fixed by Congress, but it is claimed that a faulty survey has given Texas 600,000 acres it is not entitled to. The demand of New Mexico is for the return of the 600,000 acres and the ceding of El Paso County to New Mexico as indemnity for the use of the lands and the collection of taxes. It is thought that this would be satisfactory to El Paso County, as the people of that county have been threatening to secede from Texas.

The convention is soon to decide whether the Supreme Court shall be appointed or elected and whether the grand jury system shall be abolished.

INDIANA CITIES ON LAND CLAIMED AS PART OF OHIO

Society of Engineers Starts Movement Expected to Result in Controversy.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 8.—A movement expected to result in a bitter controversy between the states of Ohio and Indiana, and in which Uncle Sam probably will be called as arbitrator, was started at a meeting here. Experts of the Toledo society claim that Union City, Ind., and numerous smaller cities on the eastern boundary of Indiana are really in Ohio.

This was brought out in a paper by former County Surveyor Joseph Heffmann. Back of this, however, is a well-defined movement to determine the Ohio boundaries and to mark them fully.

"The Toledo Society of Engineers has determined that there is a strip of land one mile wide at the north end, gradually reducing to nothing at the south end, 200 miles away," says Walter Sherman, "now in possession of Indiana, that is actually the property of the State of Ohio."

Among those not mentioned in our last Sunday's ad is a line of poets, including Mrs. Browning, Holmes, Mrs. Hemans, Bryant and Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, illustrated and bound in maroon cloth, with gold stamping, library size; books for which you would expect to pay at least $1.50 each; our price, while they last, is..... 50c

35 RATTLERS IN ONE HOLE

Two Homesteaders Drive Them Out and Kill Them.

PIERRE, S. D., Nov. 8.—These are the days of snake stories in the range country and the latest is the harvest of 35 from a prairie dog hole.

Charles Jolliffe and Charles Smith, young homesteaders near Hayes, saw a rattler crawl into a dog hole, and started to drown it out. Along with it came 34 of its sisters, cousins and aunts. All were killed.

OFFER TO WED IF ELECTED BRINGS DELUGE OF MAIL

Pre-Nuptial Gift Showers Also Greet Wisconsin Candidate for Governor.

DAN CUPID THE ISSUE

Republican Campaign Manager Nervous Because Serious Voters Are Laughing.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 8.—At the eleventh hour Dan Cupid has taken the platform in the Wisconsin gubernatorial campaign. This is no joke—Dan is the issue, no matter how stormily the reactionaries react, the stand-patters stand pat, the conservatives conserve or the insurgents insurge. And the Republican candidate for Governor, who, when twitted with being a bachelor, impulsively declared he would get married if elected, and the campaign manager, are being deluged with letters suggesting girls and women as candidates for the honor of being the first lady of the State.

The bachelor candidate for Governor was serious when he made the promise, or, if he wasn't serious, he has to be now; he'll have to "make good." Francis E. McGovern, the candidate who made the rash promise, says it was made in all seriousness.

The campaign manager wishes he had thought twice before promising so much. He has about all he can do at this season of the campaign, anyhow, for no matter how strongly Republican Wisconsin is, the majority party, though confident, gets pretty nervous just before election. Now, this promise of the candidate to wed if elected has injected laughter into the campaign, and if there is one thing political leaders or campaigners fear above all other things, in a campaign, it is too much laughter. When men laugh, the tension loosens and they are likely to stop and think—and when men—even partisans—think, who can tell what's going to happen?

His One Great Mistake.

The poor campaign manager for the candidate has had to hire extra help to answer the streams of letters pouring in to the bachelor candidate. The one great mistake the candidate made in promising to take unto himself a wife in case of election, was the announcement that he would yet have to find the girl. If he hadn't said that, he would not have precipitated the deluge, so the manager thinks.

Wherever the candidates goes he is greeted with what the girls call wedding showers.

When McGovern drove his automobile into Oconomowoc the other day he was promised an elaborate outfit. Charles Solverson, a Waukesha County candidate, offered to him a choice Guernsey cow from his high-bred herd as a wedding present. J. A. Peacock of Oconomowoc, the home of Chicago millionaires in the summer, county chairman, offered a fur overcoat.

The promise to wed was made at Sheboygan on the second night of McGovern's tour. Sheboygan is his old home and at a dinner before the evening speech the county chairman said:

"Frank, we have never in Wisconsin had a bachelor for Governor, and if you get elected you will have to get a wife. There must be a mistress of the White House at Madison."

"I promise," stammered McGovern, as a cry of approval answered the county chairman's sally; "I promise that if I am elected I will be married. I will have to find the girl, though, but this is no joke. It is a sacred promise."

The next day the story was over all Wisconsin. It hit the popular fancy, and now the McGovern campaign is becoming a man hunt, with the candidate as the quarry, instead of a vote-hunt with the candidate as the hunter.

"For goodness sake," said "Billy" Essman, the secretary of the State Committee, "tell the ladies of the country that the wife story is a joke.

"Call it off! We have work enough now without having to find a wife for McGovern. Call it off!"

But it can't be "called off."

PASTOR JUSTIFIES LIES TO SAVE LIFE OR WIFE'S HONOR

Methodist Makes Dramatic Defense of Falsehoods Under Two Conditions.

ZANESVILLE, O., Nov. 8.—The Rev. A. M. Courtenay, pastor of Grace M. E. Church, the largest and wealthiest congregation in Zanesville, in a sermon declared that a man is justified in telling a lie under two conditions. The first he illustrated.

"If a fugitive passes you at the crossroads and turns to the left, and a moment later the pursuers come and ask you which way he went, to save that man's life you are justified in telling them the wrong direction.

"And in the second place,"—Dr. Courtenay leaned forward dramatically—"a man is justified in telling a lie to save his wife's honor."

Monkey Hangs Himself in Cage.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 8.—"Jacko" Mack, a monkey sent last year as a mascot to Mack Bros.' Motor Car Co. from a friend in Chicago, hanged himself in his cage. He had found a stout piece of wrapping twine and a made a noose just as a man would do.

Peddler Pays Tax With 670 Pennies.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 8.—Clarence Weeks, a peddler, dumped 670 pennies on the counter at the County Treasurer's office when he paid his $6.7 taxes. "Just saved them out of odd change from customers for six months purposely for tax money," he said.

Killed When Train Backs Into Auto.

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 8.—One person was killed and three others seriously, two perhaps fatally, injured, when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a train of cars being backed by a Kansas City Southern Railroad engine here yesterday.

Wants to Find Brother.

Mary Belle May, 1932 Flora avenue, Kansas City, Mo., has written to the Post-Dispatch asking assistance in finding her brother, believed to be in St. Louis, whose former home was in Boonville, Mo. She has not heard from him in two years.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

WOMAN BEAUTY DOCTOR GUILTY OF SWINDLING HER PARTNER

Hobble Skirted Defendant Fails to Win Sympathy From Jury of Men.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 8.—Miss Isabella K. Lippert, former proprietor of the Paris Beauty Shop, charged with swindling Miss Mary M. Silver of Youngstown, O., appeared in court attired in a hobble skirt and wearing a large velvet picture hat, trimmed with a mass of willow plumes. When she tried to get on the witness stand, the hobble skirt so impeded her that she would have fallen had not a court officer aided her.

Miss Silver testified that she bought an interest in the beauty shop on a guarantee that it paid $50 a day, and that it did not; also that most of the furniture was later removed to the home of Miss Lippert, who alleged it had not been included in the transaction.

Assistant District Attorney Mehard asked the jury not to be influenced by the attractiveness of the young woman. The jury found a verdict of guilty. Sentence will be passed Nov. 19.

PHILADELPHIA IS THREATENED WITH STRIKE ON CAR LINES

Union Votes to Call Out Men if Arbitrators Do Not Agree in Few Hours.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Philadelphia is threatened with another street car strike. The two meetings of motormen and conductors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., the second of which broke up early this morning, voted to go on strike at an hour today to be named by the Executive Committee, unless arbitrators agree on one of the points still at issue. The men, it is declared, wanted to go on strike immediately, but this was halted by the leaders.

The arbitrators are Raymond Robins of Chicago, representing the men, and John G. Vogler, representing the company. They are authorized to call in a third man if they cannot agree.

The point upon which the two arbitrators are deadlocked is the interpretation to be placed upon the term "loyal men."

Good-By to Stomach Troubles

Here Is a Simple Remedy Any Drug Store Can Mix

A Simple Home Recipe That Is Said to Be a Sure Way to Overcome Indigestion and Chronic Constipation.

Here is a recipe which many claim to be an absolute God-send to people with weak stomachs, who cannot eat a meal without distressing after-effects;

Buy 3½ ounces Essence of Pepsin, ½ ounce Cascara Aromatic and a 1-ounce bottle of Compola. Be sure you get Compola in the original bottle with seal unbroken, so as to get its full strength, as the genuine is put up only in sealed 1-ounce bottles. Have your druggist put the Essence of Pepsin and the Cascara Aromatic in a 6-ounce bottle. Then you can add the Compola at home; mix thoroughly, and the remedy is ready for use.

Shake well before taking. Adults, 1 teaspoonful after each meal; children, ¼ to ½ teaspoonful. Should your druggist be out of any of these ingredients—just remind him that his wholesaler can supply him.

This simple home recipe comes to us so strongly recommended that we believe it is worth a trial by any one who suffers from constipation, indigestion, sour stomach, belching gas, biliousness, headache and other results of poor digestion.

It's a big thing to be able to eat heartily with a splendid appetite and digest your food perfectly with no disagreeable after-effects. Probably fully 90 per cent of all chronic ailments is caused by stomach troubles And we are glad to be able to benefit readers by bringing to their notice this thoroughly effective but simple and inexpensive home remedy.—ADV.

SALOONMEN AND NEGRESS TESTIFY IN PICKEL CASE

Witnesses in Divorce Suit Tell of Husband's Conduct, Home and at Bars.

Texana Sanford, a negro cook for Mrs. Ella M. Pickel when she was living with her husband, Frederick J. Pickel, at 3929 Delmar boulevard, testified in behalf of her mistress when depositions were taken Monday in her suit for separate maintenance. Pickel filed suit for divorce after his wife brought her action.

The negress told of family jars, and of Pickel's manner at the table. She said he swore, but would not repeat the oath.

Two of the five witnesses were saloonkeepers, who told of Pickel's visits to their bars. Harry Ruggles said Pickel was a regular visitor at his Vandeventer avenue place until they quarreled, after which he did not again appear there.

Pickel Tells of Drinking.

Pickel was on the stand a great part of the day, reiterating the charges in his divorce petition. He told in detail of the Missouri Athletic Club dinner, at which, according to him, his wife drank velvet, a mixture of champagne and porter, until she became so hilarious that he sat back from the table in disgust.

Mrs. Pickel has denied, in an interview with a Post-Dispatch reporter, that this happened. She said she never drank before her marriage, and that she drank afterward only because her husband insisted on it. She took no more than two glasses of any beverage at one meal, she said.

The depositions were taken privately at the Pierce Building office of Randolph Laughlin, Mrs. Pickel's lawyer. E. A. Noonan Jr. is Pickel's attorney. Thomas C. Hennings is the special commissioner appointed to take the depositions.

BARTHOLDT IS ATTACKED BY UNION LEADER IN A SPEECH

Representative of Samuel Gompers Declares Candidate Is Against Labor.

An attack on Congressman Richard Bartholdt as an enemy of labor unions where corporate interests are involved was made Monday night by Samuel Botterill, a representative of Samuel Gompers, in an address at Concordia Hall, Thirteenth and Arsenal streets.

Botterill was especially bitter against Bartholdt because, he said, the Congressman had voted against an eight-hour day for workmen on the Panama Canal, and had voted for the amendment by which labor unions are made liable with commercial trusts to prosecution under the $200,000 fund provided for the year 1911 in a bill now before Congress.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen sent a telegram to President Taft about his stand on the appropriation bill, and he, through his secretary, sent Bartholdt a copy of his answer, for Bartholdt's use. In it he says that, to have provided for the prosecution of trusts and excluded labor unions would have been class legislation. The Supreme Court has decided that a boycott is in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, he says, and therefore the appropriation for prosecuting violators of the law should include labor unions. This is the stand Bartholdt takes, holding it to be a matter of law, he says.

HEAVILY ARMED INSANE MAN WAS A STRIKE GUARD

Former Prosperous Inventor Was Carrying Detective's Card and Weapons.

HAD CONCEALED CLUB

Superintendent of Asylum Declares Escaped Patient Is Dangerous.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Francis Magstadt, who has been working as a strike guard for the New York express companies, since the strike began a week ago, is under arrest here as an escaped lunatic from the asylum at Middletown, N. Y.

In a letter advising the authorities of Magstadt's escape, Dr. M. O. Ashley, superintendent of the asylum, stated that he is a dangerous man and that he would send guards for his patient as soon as he heard of his apprehension.

When araigned in court, the man produced a card from a detective agency, asking the police to render every courtesy to bearer. He was heavily armed and carried a two-foot club concealed in the leg of his trousers.

According to the police, Magstadt until 11 years ago was the president of the American Electric Fuse Co. an Illinois corporation, and resided in Chicago. He had invented several electric appliances and had organized this company to put them on the market. He drew a substantial salary as president of the company and got royalties from his inventions.

After severing his connection with the Chicago company Magstadt went to San Francisco, taking with him his wife and two sons. Two years ago he drifted back to his native town, Monroe, N. Y., and last May was sent to the Middletown asylum by the Monroe authorities. He escaped Aug. 16.

Simple Remedy for Kidneys

A Simple Mixture of Well-Known Ingredients for Weak or Inactive Kidneys or Bladder, Said to be the Best that Can be Had.

"Mix one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu, one-half ounce Murax compound and six ounces good pure gin." Take one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day, after eating. This simple treatment, taken in time and according to directions, is the best remedy obtainable for symptoms of kidneys and bladder trouble such as pains in the back, soreness in the groin or hip, rheumatic pains in the joints, dizziness, etc. All the above ingredients can be bought separately and mixed at home, or any good druggist can put up the prescription. This prescription cleanses clogged up or inactive kidneys and restores them to their natural function of filtering and sifting impure waste matter and uric acid from the blood.—ADV.

"I want to tell you what I think of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I would rather have it than any other medicine in the market. It breaks up colds and saves doctor's bills."—Louis Feldser, 315 Rockland street, Lancaster, Pa.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has a record for cures unparalleled in the history of medicine for all diseases of the throat and lungs, dyspepsia and all other stomach troubles, nervousness, catarrh, malaria and low fevers. It is an ideal tonic and stimulant that makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

has been extolled throughout the world for over fifty years for what it has done for suffering humanity. Its success in curing disease has caused many unreliable dealers to put up substitutes and imitations with which to fool the people, claiming that their substitutes are "just as good as" Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, but they are thinking of their profits only.

Insist on the genuine. It is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. An Aseptic Drinking Cup, also medical booklet, containing rare common sense rules for health and testimonials, and doctor's advice sent free to any one who writes The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. # $9,000,000 PAID TO J. P. MORGAN IN SPITE OF PANAMA

Roosevelt, When President, Ordered Payment to New York Financier, When Isthmian Commission Was on Way to United States to Get It.

Denial of Original Story by Charge d'Affaires Is Disproven by Official Correspondence on the Subject, on File in Washington.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The New York World today prints the following: In denying the New York World's exclusive story that annexation is one of the most pressing problems calling Mr. Taft to Panama, Carlos C. Arosemena, minister of Panama to the United States, after a long conference with the President, gave a statement to the New York Tribune in which he is quoted as saying:

"It is absolutely not true that ex-President Roosevelt ordered the payment of $9,000,000 to J. P. Morgan & Co. and without the consent of the Panamanian Government. At that time I was Charge d'Affaires and, according to an agreement made with Mr. Morgan, I instructed Mr. Perkins to collect this sum."

The World and Post-Dispatch now will proceed to show that Mr. Arosemena's statement, as published in the Tribune, is at variance with the truth. They will show that Mr. Roosevelt did order the payment of the $9,000,000 belonging to Panama to J. P. Morgan & Co. and will show that this payment was without the consent of and contrary to the wishes of the Panamanian Government.

Records Show the Negotiations.

The following facts in connection with the payment of a total of $10,000,000 are borne out by American official records and documents in the possession of the State Department and the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice in Washington:

On April 24, 1904, Secretary of State Hay wrote to the Secretary of the Treasury Shaw: "It would oblige the Government of the Republic of Panama if this Government, as a special favor, would make payment of the $10,000,000 due the Panama Government by virtue of the isthmian canal treaty in the following manner:

"One million to be paid to J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., the financial agents of the Republic of Panama, and the rest to be held until the arrival of the newly appointed minister, who leaves for Washington by the first steamer in June."

The payment of the $1,000,000 was made on April 29, 1904, on an order signed by Secretary Hay, who expressly stated, "the remainder of the appropriation of $10,000,000 to be held until the arrival here of the new Minister from the Republic, who is expected to arrived here in June next."

Hurry Up Order From Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt has exacted a "spontaneous declaration" from the revolution junta that not less than $8,000,000 should be invested to his satisfaction. He decided that the $9,000,000 should not be paid to the special commissioners sent by Panama to receive the money, but should be paid to J. P. Morgan & Co.

On May 19, 1904, after the Fiscal Commission had sailed from the isthmus and was on its way to New York, Acting Secretary of State Loomis wrote to the Secretary of the Treasury requesting that a warrant for $9,000,000 be issued in favor of Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., and as this was not done quick enough to suit Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Loomis wrote another letter to Secretary of the Treasury Shaw the same afternoon. In it he said:

"Referring to my letter of this morning requesting that a warrant be issued in favor of the Panama Government, through its financial agents, Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., for the payment of the $9,000,000 due the Panama Government, I am directed by the President to ask that this warrant be executed and forwarded immediately to the department."

The following day, after the money had been paid to J. P. Morgan & Co., Mr. Roosevelt ordered the State Department to cable down to Panama and apprise the Panamanian Government of the fact that their money had been paid to J. P. Morgan & Co., because the American Government "considered it more convenient."

Accepts After It Is Done.

The reply of the Panamanian Government was transmitted to the State Department on May 24, 1904, by the American Charge D'Affaires, W. W. Russel, in the following confidential dispatch:

"Hon. John Hay, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.:

"Sir: I have the honor to inform you that in accordance with your cabled instructions of the 20th inst., which instructions were read to the President and the Minister of Foreign Affairs and copies left with each, I now have the honor to enclose a copy with translation of the reply of said cable handed to me by the Secretary of Foreign Affairs:

"'The Secretary of the Government of the republic of Panama has the honor to inform the Honorable Charge D'Affaires ad interim of the United States of America that the President of the republic has been advised of the contents of the cablegram which he was pleased to deliver to him personally, dated yesterday, and signed by His Excellency the acting Secretary of State, in which cablegram the Government of the United States sets forth divers opinions in relation to the naming of Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co. as financial agents of the republic, and concerning the request made by my Government to the Government of the United States to delay the balance of nine millions due, according to the canal treaty between the two Governments, until the arrival at Washington of the special commissioners named by Panama to receive and invest the said millions; and concluding with the resolve to pay over the said sum to the above-mentioned J. P. Morgan & Co., because this action was considered more convenient by the Government of the United States.

"In the face of these positive declarations which have since become accomplished facts there remains to the President of the republic no other course but to accept the situation.'"

The Panama Special Fiscal Commission, which was to "receive and invest" the $9,000,000 arrived in New York on May 25, 1904. William Nelson Cromwell was their counsel and he defended their rights and protected their interests as shown by the following excerpts from his correspondence with Attorney-General Knox. On May 24, 1904, he wrote:

"The Panama Fiscal Commission will arrive here tonight or tomorrow. Mr. Perkins and I have been in close conference upon the subject and are in full sympathy with the sound advice you gave me on Friday."

On May 26, 1904, Mr. Cromwell wrote: "I have fully explained to the commission the reasons of state which influenced the Government in making payment to the fiscal agent (Morgan) of the balance on $9,000,000. * * * I shall bear in mind the wise words of the President and yourself upon this subject."

YOUNG WOMEN WHO ARE ACTIVE AT FLOWER SHOW AND SOME PRIZE CHRYSANTHEMUMS

MAGIC GARDEN GREETS BIG CROWD AT FLOWER SHOW

St. Louis Horticultural Society's Fourth Fall Exhibition Opened.

The fourth fall floral exhibition of the St. Louis Horticultural Society opened at noon Tuesday at the Coliseum, when Secretary Otto G. Koenig gave an order to throw back the doors and the crowd filed into a beautiful garden of palms, ferns, flowers and fruits that had sprung up in a night.

At the south end of the Coliseum the city Park Department has a magnificent display of palms and ferns. The Park Department exhibit is arranged as a background for the rest of the show. Some of the palms are 20 feet high and set on pedestals, concealed by encircling foliage, their tops reach to the first balcony.

Prizes for Chrysanthemums.

Tuesday was Chrysanthemum day. A premium of $500 was offered for the best display of chrysanthemums, either cut blooms or plants. There are only two competitors for their prize, but their exhibits are among the most complete of any at the show. The exhibitors are Elmer D. Smith of Adrian, Mich., and E. G. Hill of Richmond, Ind.

In these two exhibits are chrysanthemumsof every color and shade with the exception of blue and green. In all there are more than 200 varieties of chrysanthemums, ranging in size from small buds to others that are big as footballs. There are 1000 large cut chrysanthemums alone.

Among the oddities at the floral exhibition are several cotton plants which were raised in St. Louis by Fred H. Meinhardt, 7041 Florissant avenue. Meinhardt's plants are all in bloom.

A new rose called "Radiance," which is of an intermediate shade of pink, between the two now commonly cultivated by horticulturists, has been sent to the show by W. J. Vesey of Fort Wayne, Ind. There is a display of grafted cacti from Shaw's Garden, near the entrance to the Coliseum.

Wednesday will be carnation day at the show and Thursday rose day. Friday is for floral displays such as bridal bouquets and Saturday, the last day of the show, will be general display day.

Drops Dead in Hotel.

Sig. Amundsen, 48 years old, dropped dead while washing his hands in the Victor House, 619 Walnut street, where he had been stopping for the past three days. In his pocket was found a metal check showing him to be a member of the Eagles, Antigo, Wisconsin. His body was taken to the morgue.

GIRL TOILS YEARS TO SAVE $500 FOR WEDDING; ROBBED

Miss Lena Rathgeber Is Prostrated After Thief Gets Hard-Earned Fortune.

IS STOLEN IN STORE

Money Disappears From Hand Bag While She Is Purchasing Trousseau.

Miss Lena Rathgeber of 2225 Keokuk street, robbed of $500 at a store counter, is hysterical at her home, because that was all the money she had. Her plight was hinted in the want ad. she inserted in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, as follows:

> MONEY—Lost, by an orphan girl, money, rolled in handkerchief; good reward if returned to 2225 Keokuk.

The money was stolen from her hand bag in a downtown department store, where she was purchasing articles for her wedding outfit. While Miss Rathgeber was at a counter, the thief deftly opened the bag and took from it the handkerchief in which the young woman's fortune was wrapped.

Miss Rathgeber came to St. Louis three years ago. She said that her home was in Eldred, Ill., and that she was engaged to marry a young farmer there. They agreed that each should work to accumulate as much money as possible with which to begin married life. She had received a few hundred dollars of an inheritance and added to it from her earnings. Recently Miss Rathgeber received a message from her fiance in which he asked her to set the wedding date for Thanksgiving day.

Through three years of toil in a millinery store she had saved until her fortune was nearly $500. She agreed to the wedding date and gleefully told friends at her boarding place that she was soon to be married.

Knowing that Miss Rathgeber knew little of the ways and wiles of a large city, her friends warned her not to draw her money from the bank and advised her to pay for her trosseau purchases with checks. Miss Rathgeber did not see the necessity for being so cautious.

She went to the Third National Bank and drew out her savings. After making a few small purchases in one department store she went to another. Her money was tied in a handkerchief and in a small handbag. She is sure it was there when she entered the second store.

After purchasing several articles for her trosseau, Miss Rathgeber found that the handbag was open. The handkerchief containing the money was gone.

In her hysteria Miss Rathgeber has forgotten all the words she ever knew except four.

"Bring back my money," she repeatedly cries. Efforts of physicians to restore her mental state have been unavailing.

CHIEF OF POLICE WILL INVESTIGATE PLAY AT CENTURY

Orders Morality Squad to Attend Performance of "The Girl in the Taxi."

HAD STIRRED CHICAGO

Theater Which Presented It There Was Closed Later by Police Order.

Chief of Police Young said Tuesday he would send a morality squad to the Century Theater to inspect "The Girl In the Taxi," an adapted French farce which is this week's bill there, with a view to closing the show if the squad reports that the play is indecent. If possible, he said, he would send the squad Tuesday evening, but he feared the heavy election duties falling on all the members of the department would prevent that.

"The Girl in the Taxi" deals with an excursion of a father and son into the district of New York where vice flourishes.

Chief Young intended to send the morality squad to the Century Monday evening, but through a misunderstanding they went to the Imperial instead. The Chief was overburdened with arrangements for policing the town during the election, and when the squad reported he said hurriedly:

"There's a bad show in town. See it tonight and tell me whether we ought to close the theater."

The squad selected by the Chief was composed of Inspector McDonnell, Capt. Schwartz of Central District, Secretary Hodgdon of the Police Board and Auditor Tevis. They searched through the newspaper advertisements and hit upon the title, "Three Weeks." They had heard a lot about the book.

"That must have been what the Chief meant," they told one another, and set out for the Imperial.

Secretary Hodgdon acted as spokesman in reporting on "Three Weeks."

"It's not nearly so bad as the book," he assured the Chief. "I've read the book and it's indecent. But the play isn't like it in much but name. The play teaches a fine moral lesson and there's a Romeo-and-Juliet lovemaking scene which wouldn't shock anybody. Can't see anything wrong with it."

The Chief was perplexed for a moment as to what "Three Weeks" had to do with the matter—and then he saw a light.

The Imperial, therefore, will not be closed.

Theater Compromise Is Effected.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—John Cort, the theatrical manager, announced here last night that the so-called theatrical syndicate, headed by Klaw & Erlanger and the National Theater Owners' Association, formed by the independents had compromised their differences.

LAW PROVIDES PENALTY FOR AN IMPROPER PLAY

THE law bearing on improper plays is found in Section 1516 of the Revised Municipal Code, among the police regulations, as follows:

Any person who shall * * * be guilty of an indecent or lewd act or behavior * * * or shall exhibit or perform or permit to be exhibited or performed upon premises under his or her control or management, any indecent, immoral or lewd play or other representation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon a conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $300.

NEGROES SEIZE POLLS; ARMED WHITE MEN GO TO THE SCENE

Blacks Drive Out Election Officials to Cast Ballots Despite Grandfather Law.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Nov. 8.—A telephone message to the Times-Democrat from Coweta, Ok., states that negroes took possession of a voting booth in a school house in a negro settlement four miles from Coweta this morning. The white election officers were driven from the polling place, the negroes declaring they would vote despite the grandfather clause.

A message was sent to Coweta asking for help and two automobiles with 15 white men, armed with shotguns, started for the scene.

BURGLAR GETS OSTRICH PLUMES

Two ostrich plumes were plucked from a hat by a burglar in the home of Mrs. William F. Ambruster, 1432 Belt avenue, during her absence Monday night. When she returned at 11 p. m., Mrs. Ambruster found the kitchen window had been forced.

She found no other trace of the burglar's visit until she reached her own room and discovered the disappearance of her plumes. One was 16 inches long and the other 10 inches.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

WELLESLEY GIRLS DRILL AS EXPERT FIRE LAD(D)IES

Chief Is Six Feet Tall, Without French Heels; Officer in Each Corridor.

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 8.—Wellesley College has a fire department. Miss Mary Sawyer, its chief, is a seasoned member of the department, and stands 6 feet without French heels. Under her are captains, one for each dormitory, and lieutenants, one for each corridor, who look after the manning of the fire hose, the placing of extinguishers, and who are responsible for life and property in their precincts.

Except for the Wellesley Village Fire Department, which does not amount to much—so the college girls aver—the college brigade is the only hope of the institution in case of fire. It already has had its first fire drill. A large bonfire was built on the campus and every member of the department learned how to use the chemical extinguisher.

The fire drill schedule is like this: The gong rings, lights are switched on. Windows and transoms closed, doors closed, the person selected unrolls the hose and from a signal from the lieutenant, all file quickly to the main floor, where, if the Fire Department is not demoralized by fainting spells, the captain calls the roll and the lieutenant answers here or not here. If some are missing a search is instituted.

Later will come unannounced drills. These are to be exciting. The sleepy young women will be pulled from their couches at 6 a. m.; there will not be a moment to pull off curl papers or don the best kimono before scurrying downstairs. The laggard won't be sure whether she is going to get a demerit mark or only be burned to death. It may be practice or a real fire.

One enterprising captain, Miss Lydia Brown of Freeman Cottage, is anxious to have an alarm sent in at 2 a. m. Heaven forbid, say the college authorities, lest some over-nervous damsel jump out of a window or over the banisters.

GENTLEMEN Pay Attention to That Little Bald Spot on Top

Give the Hair Root Nourishment in Time and Stop the Spread of Baldness

Old men, young men, middle aged men, keep a sharp lookout for thinning out of hair right on the top of your head.

If your hair has already started to fall; if you have dandruff and your scalp itches at times, then your only hope lies in PARISIAN SAGE, a really scientific preparation, that supplies natural nourishment to the hair roots.

In Parisian Sage there is one ingredient that supplies nourishment to the hair root. There is another ingredient that kills the dandruff germs. There is another (and not a dye—mind you) that puts life and luster into the hair.

But most marvelous of all is one ingredient that makes it possible for others to penetrate into the scalp, get to the roots of the hair and do their duty.

It took many years to find and perfect this wonderful agent that puts the scalp in such a condition that the other ingredients can soak in and get right down to the hair root where the hair worries and scalp ailments begin.

So you can readily see that Parisian Sage is a harmonious combination compounded by brains and science and not by guess work on the say-so of father's grandfather.

And that is why Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. guarantees Parisian Sage to grow new hair (if the hair root is not dead), to stop falling hair; to kill the dandruff germs and banish dandruff; to stop itching scalp and put a fascinating luster and radiance into any person's hair or money back.

Fifty cents buys a large bottle of PARISIAN SAGE at Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and druggists everywhere. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by the American makers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

"SALOME" AND ST. PAUL.

"Salome," the Richard Strauss opera which was withdrawn at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York soon after its original production, but has since been accepted, will not be given in St. Paul. The men who guarantee the fund for the grand opera season there were persuaded to condition their support on the withdrawal of "Salome" from the suggested list of operas. It was an effective argument.

However, this operatic departure manifested in the presentation to Western audiences of metropolitan productions by the greatest artists, is an educative endeavor. It has a flavor of altruism. The underlying motive is to contribute something to raise the standard of musical taste and quicken the public demand for the artistic in its highest form.

In this view of it if "Salome" is not wanted it would be more satisfactory to have assigned as a cause the unmelodic music of its very modern composer rather than its supposed assault on uncomplacent morals in the utilization of a "property" head of John the Baptist and a dancer in attenuated attire. We have become accustomed to both through their repetition in various places where they did not belong. But St. Paul is not to be allowed to see them in their native environment. In the interest of artistry and out of respect for this educative movement, we could wish that St. Paul had declined "Salome" because the Richard Strauss music is probably too advanced for the crude and uneducated taste of the benighted dwellers of the upper reaches of the Mississippi.

HE AND THE OTHERS.

As long as the Colonel's tongue has power to wag, epithets regarding those who differ from him will continue to flow from it. This being so, it will be interesting to sum up to date what he has called the others and what the others have called him.

He unwittingly founded the now famous "Ananias Club," when he called Herbert W. Bowen, "a disingenuous liar"; Mr. William E. Chandler "a deliberate and unqualified liar"; Mr. Alton B. Parker "an atrocious liar"; Mr. G. O. Shields "an inventive liar"; Mr. Bellamy Storer "a peculiarly perfidious liar"; Mr. John F. Wallace "an utter liar," and Mr. Henry M. Whitney "a deliberate liar."

Later on, he denounced the editor of the New York Evening Post as a "scientific and descriptive liar." He dubbed the Socialists "undesirable citizens"; childless women, "criminals"; the Justices of the Supreme Court men who are "perfectly honest but fossilized of mind." Reverting to individuals, he called Judge Anderson, of the United States District Court, "a crook and a jackass," and Judge Simon E. Baldwin, Democratic nominee for Governor of Connecticut, "retrogressive, Bourbon and reactionary."

What the others have said of him is perhaps even more interesting. Many have condemned, but a few have unstintedly praised.

Judge Alton B. Parker called him "Taft's private defamer"; Prof. E. H. Woodruff, of Cornell University, called him "twice a liar," and "an unmitigated liar." Prof. Howard Moore, of Lane Technical High School, Washington, D. C., called him "a born barbarian." Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, called him "a destructive." William R. Hearst says he is "ambitious, vain, selfish, reckless and erratic." John A. Dix, Democratic nominee for Governor of New York, calls him "the apostle of tumult and the protagonist of misrepresentation; an agitator and egotist." Abraham Gruber of New York styled him "the apostle of derringer practice; the American Jack Cade." And Ex-Senator J. R. Burton denounced him as "a cross between a turkey gobbler and a bulldog," who "sputters his malice like a monkey in convulsions."

To offset this damnatory string we have Henry Watterson, who called him "the most startling figure since Napoleon; a patriotic American, with humanitarian proclivities; an incorruptible man; a lineal descendant of Caesar and Cromwell." And Lord Curzon, chancellor of Oxford University, who called him "peer of the most august kings; queller of men, destroyer of monsters." Guglielmo Ferrero, the Italian historian, compared him with Caesar and called him "the apostle of simplicity, of the warlike spirit, and of the familiar, old-fashioned virtues."

Finally, Taft called him—but this was a good while ago—one who "will take his place in history with Washington and Lincoln."

"Pray every morning for a little while to God to direct you to tell the truth, and see what fruits it will bear," wrote Mayor Gaynor to Ezra Prentice, chairman of the New York Republican State Committee. Of course it is excellent advice, but it raises the question whether Mayor Gaynor is working for Prentice's reform or is desirous of submitting the efficacy of prayer to a final and supreme test.

EXPANSION AND SHRINKAGE.

Although the returns of the Census Bureau, most important for explaining the political history of 10 years of "expansion policies," have not been given out before the day of election, the bureau has done enough in foreshadowing them to save itself from conviction, if charged with holding back information for partisan purposes.

Incomplete as the information given out is in detail, and given out late as it was, it is still enough in outline for intelligent and definite judgment.

The results give the verdict on the expansion of jingoism, doubled expense for war, militant display and the attempt at Washington to turn the mind of the country from quiet and persistent improvement at home to conquest, world politics and world empire with the flag outside of the Constitution as a "commercial asset."

Outside the cities, the great states of the Central West have gone backwards, with general results worse than the shrinkage of 7000 in Iowa's population in 1910 as compared with 1900.

Results worse than this, if not the worst possible in their threat for the future if this policy is persisted in at Washington, are expansion and shrinkage, working together in the strongest contrast in this great central group of states. Small land holders have been forced to sacrifice their holdings and to move, while the money power, absorbing these, has gone on inflating prices in the face of decreasing population in the area of this inflation. As expansion in the cost of living and of everything else forced emigration, the same sort of expansion, operating towards increasing land monopoly, increased the size of holdings and prevented immigration to the land.

This is the plain story of 10 years for the great North Central states. Still the average of "per capita wealth" has been reported as rising every year of the 10 during which men in Mr. Rockefeller's class have grown annually richer, as the struggle of the rest to survive has added increasing profits to enormous capitalizations, which as first expanded were largely fictitious.

Under the processes by which this system seeks to perpetuate its policies of disturbance abroad and extravagance at home, the average per capita wealth of the country is found by adding together the wealth of those whose assets are minus to those whom the system permits to increase their own assets (plus) almost at will. This is expansion and shrinkage combined, with expansion "taking over" the shrinkage to increase its own bulk. The census figures, as far as they have been given out, are a mathematical explanation of the famous Rockefeller parable that the best American beauty roses can be produced only by "pinching" the buds from all stems except those which demand the whole strength of the roots to reach the largest size.

MR. KIEL, BANNER PROPHET.

Of them all, Henry W. Kiel, chairman of the Republican City Committee, is the banner prophet. All the others rested their prophecies on figures. Mr. Kiel delved into philosophy and contemplated serenely the minds of the masses. He found that the high-cost-of-living campaign has reacted against the Democrats, "especially among the laboring men who are satisfied with conditions."

We wish Mr. Kiel would catch that satisfied laboring man and bring him in to be photographed. It is a sad thing to have candidates for the Hall of Fame running at large and unphotographed. Everyone will want to have a look at the satisfied laboring man who thinks oleomargarine at 28 cents a pound a suitable substitute for butter, who prefers his eggs at 35 cents a dozen, who wouldn't have bacon if it were lower than 40 cents a pound, who accepts chuck roasts at 18 cents as the proper alternative to porterhouse steak at 16 cents and longs for Saturday night that he may empty the contents of his little old pay envelope into the gaping maw of the Food Trust's cash register.

We hope Mr. Kiel will go out and round up that laboring man today. He can place him on exhibition and escape worry over campaign expenses for 10 years to come.

HEALTH IN THE UPPER AIR.

In his recent romance picturing man's mastery of the air, Rudyard Kipling sketched a hospital airship filled with consumptives, journeying through the upper reaches of the air. It was Sunday morning, and as the rising sun touched the open ports of the flying sanitarium, passers by in the regions of plentiful oxygen heard the patients chanting the Litany of the Episcopal Church and imploring help for the sick and afflicted. It is a somewhat mournful picture.

More inspiring is the true story, in the Sunday Post-Dispatch Magazine, of how a man who had but a year to live, quickly regained robust health through his own efforts as an aviator. Hubert Latham, condemned by the doctors as incurable, took to the air and, as all the world knows, won fame while he was destroying the germs of death in his system. In a little over a year he became a bronzed athlete, without a trace of the deadly disease left.

There is a wealth of promise in this true story. At the present time, few consumptives will have the nerve to follow Latham's example. But as the aeroplane is perfected and made safe, it will take the place of a change of climate, without its accompanying severing of home ties. Up there, where no smoke or germs are to be found, flying at a speed that forces oxygen into the lungs in such quantities and in such purity that the entire system is rejuvenated, the men and women of the future who have been unfortunate enough to attract the seeds of this disease will find salvation. It may not be too much to hope that this method of cure will ultimately make tuberculosis an obsolete pest.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Senator Kinney's Education.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A few words for the Hon. Thomas E. Kinney, now being attacked for his "origin" at the end of his congressional campaign.

I am told that his opponent is a "broader" man, "with an education," and an origin unexceptionable. But it came home to me, when public-spirited legislative work was needed to establish the Art Museum, that the broad man who came forward at the critical juncture was State Senator Thomas E. Kinney. His education was all right that time; and as for his origin, it did not prevent him from seeing straight and doing right, and doing it well. So with the work for the public library, as I have heard Mr. Lehmann testify; and so with other public measures of the strictly "pro bono publico" sort that many legislators, despite education, seem willing to neglect.

Don't our friends who lay such great stress on "education" make the error Gladstone corrected when, after having to deplore weaknesses, he declared characteristic of "the educated classes," he paused a moment and said, "I had rather say the tutored classes?" Why in this democracy must we be so particular to have our congressmen so carefully "educated" and so immaculately originated? In the House of Commons are a large number of "workingmen" members, who might be called ignorant or crude according to the well-tutored standard (and Lord knows how they originated or what unparliamentary sins they committed in their pre-parliamentary days), but they render a great national service just the same.

Mr. Kinney does not represent the narrowing education Gladstone deprecated, and he has not been drilled in the fashionable schools. But he has expanded, grown up to his work, until the community respects him and expects the best from him, and until many with whom he has worked in the public interest admire him immensely. Little tutored in the schools, his faculties have been "drawn out"—"e-duc-ated"—in public service in the legislative field where he now seeks greater opportunity to serve.

F. E. A. CURLEY.

Campaign Expenses.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I see that the City Democratic Committee only represents the moneyed interests of the Democratic party. That is nothing new. It has been the practice of both the old party machines for many years. That is why I have been advocating for many years for the states to appropriate money for the election expenses and put any man or officers of corporations in the penitentiary for five years that puts up any money for election purposes. Then we could get brainy men back in politics instead of a lot of figureheads mortgaged before they are nominated to the money bags. The Bentons, Blairs, Rollins, Vests and Cockrills would not mortgage themselves if they were here, and the State loses the service of that class of men. I want to see the next Legislature take the first step and other states would soon fall in line. Then our servants would be for all the people, not for the few rich.

T. T. HATHAWAY.

An Election Clerk's Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Having read an article in your paper in regard to the pay of judges and clerks of election and the amount of time they put in, citing the fact they spent 20 hours primary day, I wish to go even further and say that registration day we beat his 20 hours to a "frazzle." Opening the polls at 8 a. m., Tuesday, we never stopped working until 2 a. m. Wednesday; met again Wednesday at 8 a. m. and never finished till 5 p. m. Then we clerks started to canvass until 10 p. m. Up again Thursday morning, we began at 7 and finished at 6:30. It was then too late to return the books so we returned them Friday. For these three days and nights' service of the clerks and two days of the judges the munificent sum of $5 and $10 each. Think of it, Mr. Editor and Mr. Citizen, who want an absolutely fair ballot, not at any cost but the very cheapest cost. I believe city employes work but eight hours and for overtime receive extra pay. I wish the paper of the people would make an effort and let us know if we are not entitled to the same extra pay for extra work. We certainly earn it.

Again on Oct. 14 we had another long session.

Does the public realize that our hardest work begins after the polls or registration closes?

Then again on election day, with its ceaseless grind from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. Then comes the count, which if done according to law and fairly and honestly, carefully and conscientiously will last until 12 o'clock Wednesday noon.

Do the editor and the public think it can get an accurate count with men working these hours for $5? Human endurance can go say 15 hours and be accurate, but after that what? Names and figures become jumbled, mistakes are made, judges and clerks become sleepy or sick. Who is to blame?

My plan for election day would be this: Close the polls at 7 or 8 p. m.; then count all the straight ballots of each party, say 40 Democratic, 40 Republican, etc., of each of the parties on the ballot; then count the total number of scratched ballots, just simply looking to see if they are scratched, and not to see if they are properly voted; make your returns to the Election Commissioners, 40 D., 40 R., 10 S., 20 P., 150 scratched; put all the ballots except the unused ones, which destroy, in the ballot box, lock the box, one judge of the opposite party holding the key and the other judge the box. Next morning at 6 o'clock all the judges and clerks meet again at the polling place and carefully and honestly count every ballot cast according to law, with clear heads.

AN ELECTION CLERK.

MATERIAL FOR A GOVERNOR.

From the New York World.

Remarkable in every way, Woodrow Wilson's campaign has been unique in one respect. He has instructed the people. He has not been content to point out the duty of public servants, though he has set a high standard for all of them. He has impressed upon the people their own obligations and responsibilities.

There has been no flattery in his speeches. There has not been a suggestion of demagogy. Yet a word has been uttered condescendingly and not an idea has been presented that was not as creditable to the intelligence and manhood of his hearers as it was to himself.

We have had no such political discussion elsewhere in this country in many years. It has presented popular sovereignty at its best. It has been highly intellectual but eminently practical. On reason alone he has depended for results. On the candor of his fellow-citizens he rests his cause.

In Woodrow Wilson New Jersey has a leader worthy to take high place among those summoned to restore to government in this country the justice and dignity of which self-seeking and vociferation have deprived it.

"Oh, Helen! Helen!" exclaimed her aunt, horrified, "what are you doing?"

Without taking her eyes from the puddle, she replied. "I's just making the water wiggle."

ENVOY OF THE PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN.

I.

WHEN the last ballot is counted, and Missouri is saved from the drouth;
When the grave peril is over, and the wave has rolled back to the South,
We shall breathe—and gads, we shall need it. The days shall roll pleasantly by,
And nobody then shall suspect us of secretly being a dry.

II.

And all the suspects shall be happy: we shall live in the light of our acts,
And the terrible business committee shall desist with accusative tracts.
The cloud we are under shall vanish, the sun shall resume in the sky,
And nobody then shall suspect us of secretly being a dry.

III.

And only our wives shall harangue us, and only our wives shall presume
To speak of the way we are going and picture the coming of doom.
We shall sort of recover our standing, the hate and suspicion shall die,
And nobody then shall suspect us of secretly being a dry.

Three cheers and a blind tiger for prohibition, anyway.

HARD LUCK.

Mrs. Dikeout: Was your reception a great social success?

Mrs. Finefeather: Not altogether. Two of my guests didn't come in automobiles.

THESE PARLOUS TIMES.

Mrs. Marsh: I haven't seen anything of you people lately.

Mrs. Mallow: No, we've been lying pretty low.

Mrs. Marsh: Is that so? I didn't know your husband was for prohibition.

B. B.—Enclose and inclose are both used. We prefer inclose. En is chiefly borrowed from the French; it coincides with the Latin in.

X. Y. Z.—500 and other card games are appropriate for linen shower entertainment. There are books of games in the Public Library.

C. A. T.—He could have come out of the room hurriedly without being in confusion. The sentence should state the case according to the fact.

MRS. H. B.—Confectioneries and ten-cent stores will show you inexpensive Thanksgiving favors. Decoration, autumn leaves, smilax, and any autumn flowers.

Q.—If you intend to be present, it is not necessary to acknowledge wedding invitation. If not to attend, send card with word "regrets," to bride, writing her maiden name.

THANKFUL.—It is said that a bit of lanolin salve or the pure lanolin, of which 5 cents' worth will be sufficient, rubbed on the red marks left by pimples will eradicate the scar or color.

STUDENT.—Full list of night schools was recently published. You may get a list at Board of Education offices, Ninth and Locust streets. School nights, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

IGNORANT ONE.—When you go to a Thanksgiving dinner at a great hotel you may have your hat and cloak checked for safekeeping. In American hotels and court rooms "all hats off" is the rule.

DUMFOUNDED.—For falling hair, massage scalp thoroughly every day. Rub crude petroleum into the scalp once a week or oftener. Go bareheaded as much as possible and have pure air and sunshine.

HESTER.—Penalty for army desertion depends upon the circumstances as shown to a court-martial. In time of war it is death. If deserter remains in this country two years after desertion he is not arrested.

I. X. L.—As a rule, only French and Italians pronounce French and Italian correctly. Good management and hustling, with a good location, bring "luck." "Up-to-date" is a good name for a show that can live up to it.

P. D.—King Edward's church was the Church of England, and he was Defender of the Faith, as is King George now. Edward would allow no public entertainment in theaters, music halls, etc., on Sunday, Christmas or Good Friday.

READER.—The girl with a "regular sweetheart" is foolish to "play around with other boys" if she expects to marry him. If he is foolishly jealous she should have nothing more to do with him. A girl not engaged cannot be expected to devote herself wholly to one selfish, conceited young man.

L. H.—A pair of rough steer horns were polished in this way: First, they were rubbed gently and long with very fine sandpaper, then with chamois skin. Next, as much neatsfoot oil as the surface would take was worked into them and left to dry for ten days. They were then polished with fine emery and chamois.

EVELYN.—Bretagne (Brittany) was annexed to France in 1531; previous to that time it was an independent duchy. Its inhabitants are called Bretons, not Britons, and nothing is British that comes from that country. The province was settled by the Cymri, a Celtic race to which the ancestors of the Welsh belonged.

MIZPAH.—Don't write inscriptions in book you are sending to fiancee. If the book is in existence on the first anniversary of your marriage, then write in it something sweet about the happiness of your union. Being tender and loving before marriage is well enough, but the sentiment should be tested after marriage. "To my beloved ——" would be a sufficient inscription if you insist on writing one.

R. R. R.—Ten greatest orations: Demosthenes "On the Crown;" Cicero against Catiline, "Quousque Catiline;" Burke, Impeachment of Warren Hastings; Patrick Henry, "Liberty or Death;" Webster, Reply to Hayne; Lincoln, Gettysburg Address; Mazzini, Address to the Young Men of Italy (Cosenza speech); Danton, "Toujours L'Audace," "To Dare, to Dare Again; Always to Dare;" Luther before the Diet at Worms; the Sermon on the Mount.

SEEKER OF INFORMATION.—Questions asked Public Library candidates are: General history, general literature, general information and translations into English from any foreign language with which applicants may be familiar. Salary first three months apprenticeship, $20 a month; next three months, $25; last six months of first year, $30 a month; for second year, $35 a month for first half of year, and $40 a month for second half. Young men and women between 17 and 25 years who have had a first-class high school education or its equivalent are eligible. City residence not required. Slight deafness would lessen chance of employment.

NOSEY.—Nobody knows how long it would be, should prohibition carry, for the bars to be dry. Missouri laws go into effect 90 days after passage, unless it be otherwise provided. Legislature meets Jan. 4, 1911. Speed Mosby, secretary of the Missouri Anti-Prohibition Association, holds that by an injunction the dry forces could easily stop the manufacture or sale of liquor in Missouri. In his opinion, any judge would grant the injunction, as the sale or manufacture of liquor would then be in violation of the highest law of the State. "As soon as the amendment would become a law," he said, "an injunction could be secured against any brewer or saloon keeper who operated in defiance of it. This would be more effectual than any penalty provision and the court would not fix the penalty. As to the time when the amendment would become effective," he continued, "that would be within a few days after the election. As soon as the vote is counted the Secretary of State will notify the Governor. Should prohibition carry, the Governor, under the State Constitution, must immediately issue a proclamation and thenceforth prohibition would be a law."

TROUSERS Are More Hygenic and Modest for Women, Says Mrs. Powell, Who Denounces Hampering SKIRTS

Dress reformer who charges that women of the Paris half-world make fashions, describes her novel costumes.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

DOWN with the hobble skirt!

A bas the Paris evening gown!

Conspuez—ask any Frenchman what it means—the ding-a-ling hat and the polo coat!

Shiver the glass of fashion and smash the mold of form!

All this by way of working the reader up to a little talk with Mrs. Alma Webster Powell, who has invented a new costume for women, which she believes will bring about a world-wide reform, and, incidentally, solve the problem of the cost of living, at least so far as it applies to women's clothes.

The first principle of Mrs. Powell's costume is trousers, which she believes are much more modest and hygienic than skirts.

BUT listen to the story from Mrs. Powell's own lips, as I did, though you are not privileged as I was to see her in all the glory of trousers and top boots. Very becoming, too, they were, for Mrs. Powell is a very handsome woman, with big black eyes, a real figure and a real complexion that a brisk walk in the driving rain had emphasized.

"I consider trousers more hygienic than skirts, more clean and more modest. Do you think the Turk, who is absolute master of his wives, would permit them to wear trousers if they were not the most modest garment in the world?

"My street costume is of the finest black serge. The coat is made with a Dutch neck, for I do not like a collar. It fastens at the side with frogs and is of about the length the finger-tips reach when the arms hang down. The trousers are pleated from a yoke into a band a little below the knee. They are met by high boots. My hat is of black satin, very small, and is untrimmed, save for a frog of gold lace.

"Of course, my evening gowns, which will be made on exactly the same model, are more elaborate. This street costume cost me $125, but any tailor could duplicate it in cheaper materials for $40.

"As I aim to make the fashion a permanent one, you see where the economy comes in.

"For $40 you get a costume that you can wear two or three years, just as your husband wears his suits."

"You were going to tell me about your evening trousers," I reminded Mrs. Powell.

"My evening costumes," she amended, "one of white satin, with white satin boots. The two others of black velvet and black satin, each lined with old gold satin. They will have black velvet and black satin boots, respectively."

"Would you mind telling me just what advantage the costume you have invented will have over the short-skirted tailor-made?"

"Not at all," replied the handsome Mrs. Powell. "Skirts gather microbes, particularly silk underskirts, which we are obliged to wear in winter. Examine one under the microscope if you don't believe me. They are immodest. On a windy day women show their persons to a most undesirable extent.

"I returned from Europe two weeks ago. There was a party of college girls on the same steamer, and I noticed every time they went upstairs I could see their garters.

"If they had worn my costume of trousers and boots there would have been no such exhibition."

"What is your position as to the corset?" I inquired.

"At present I wear one," frankly answered the dress reformer, "a short girdle, for I feel that the lower part of the body needs some support. But I am taking all sorts of exercises and hope by next year to be able to do away with it altogether.

"You see, I aim to emancipate women from the greatest tyranny of all, that of fashion. You know the fashions are made in Paris, and by the demi-mondaines of Paris. It does not seem to be right for us American wives and mothers to wear the garments that such women make popular."

Which seemed to me the last unanswerable word of a new bifurcated Virtue!

Sirens Who Have Changed History

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Albert P. Terhune.

No. 8—ANNE BOLEYN, the Siren Who Changed England's History.

THE English court was very dull and sedate. The King, Henry VIII, had none of the qualities that made other European courts viciously brilliant. His elderly wife, Queen Katherine, was severe, homely, deeply pious, and was opposed to all gayety. The King was fairly fond of Katherine—because he had never chanced to fall in love with any one else—and was content to humor her taste for sedate dullness.

Into this placid, stupid atmosphere—somewhere between 1522 and 1527—burst one of the loveliest women of the day. She was Anne Boleyn, daughter of an English nobleman. As a mere child she had gone to the French court and there had remained for many years. The court of France was as gay and wicked as England's was stupid and good. Anne had there acquired a dash and cleverness that stamped her as a woman of wondrous fascination, even in France. When she returned to England she took King Henry's court by storm.

She was young—Queen Katherine was old. Anne was bright, fun-loving, fond of shattering to bits the stiff conventionalities of etiquette that hedged in the English of that time. Despite the fact that she had two thumbs on each hand she was one of the most beautiful women in England. Anne became maid of honor to Katherine. King Henry saw her—and she set herself to win his love.

It was a deep game Anne played. She was not content to be merely the idol of an hour. She aimed for the Throne. Her chance of success in such a daring scheme was far greater with a man like Henry than it might have been with a more worldly-wise monarch. As she was in constant attendance upon the Queen, the King saw her often. Soon he was hopelessly in love with her. She held aloof. This made him the more eager to win her heart. He made her a Marchioness and heaped rich gifts upon her. At length she managed to make him understand she was willing to become his wife and the Queen of England.

Henry promptly decided to divorce Katherine. When he had married her, in his early youth, Katherine had been the widow of his elder brother. The King now professed to have qualms of conscience as to the legality of such a marriage. He called on the Pope to sanction a divorce. His Holiness refused. Henry thereupon tore England away from the Church of Rome, altered the form of his country's religion and declared himself sole head of the English Church. He also closed no less than 465 monasteries. Such persons, high or low, as objected to Henry's startling acts were put to death.

Thus a girl with four thumbs and a few tricks of coquetry managed to change the religion and history of a great nation, to cause the deaths of thousands of innocent men and women and to turn a formerly good King into a monster. Anne looked on the great Cardinal Wolsey as her foe. She did not rest until she had secured his utter ruin.

In January, 1533, Henry and she were married. She was crowned Queen of England the same year. (Her only daughter was one day to be the famed Queen Elizabeth). Almost at once Anne was made to suffer for her sins. Henry during the six years that the divorce from Katherine dragged on had been an ardent, adoring lover. Now that he and Anne were at last married he soon wearied of his new wife. Anne had a maid of honor—Jane Seymour—younger and more attractive than herself. As Anne had craftily supplanted Katherine in the King's affections, so Jane now proceeded to supplant Anne.

So successful was the maid of honor that Anne's many enemies at court found the King a willing listener when they brought him stories—false or true—of his wife's unfaithfulness. Anne was tried for her life, sentenced and condemned to death. On May 19, 1536, she was beheaded. The next day Henry married Jane Seymour. When Anne was in prison awaiting execution she sent Henry this remarkable, if perhaps hypocritical, message:

"From a private gentlewoman you have made me first a Marchioness, then a Queen. And, as you can raise me no higher in this world, you are now sending me to be a saint in heaven."

The "Silence."

THE deciding battle of the war was about to be fought. The flower of the army, the West Point Battalion, occupied the center of the line, the keystone of the sanguinary struggle.

"When I cry forward," roared the commanding general, "the cadets will utter a fierce yell and storm the enemy's intrenchment."

But at that moment a fourth-year man discovered an obnoxious person on the General's staff. The cadets at once determined to give him the usual proof of their disapproval.

"Forward," screamed the General. But not a cadet cheered, not a cadet charged. Instead they preserved a profound silence and rigidly held their ground.

And the battle was lost.

But the cadets exultingly remembered that they had been true to their traditions.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

When Finnegan Died.

TWO Irishmen were in a city bank recently waiting their turn at the cashier's window.

"This reminds me of Finnegan," remarked one.

"What about Finnegan?" inquired the other.

"'Tis a story that Finnegan died and when he greeted St. Peter he said: 'It's a fine job you have here for a long time.' 'Well, Finnegan,' said St. Peter, 'here we count a million years as a minute and a million dollars as a cent.' 'Ah!' said Finnegan. 'I'm needing cash. Lend me a cent.'

"'Sure,' said St. Peter, 'just wait a minute.'"—St. Paul Dispatch.

IT was not time for the Toytown school to open and the Paris Doll was over in one corner giving the Baby Doll her bath when the Clown Doll came into the nursery and said:

"I am going to have a flying machine of my own, and I am going to make it fly so high that it will 'bumpety-bump-bump' on the ceiling."

Then he took a paper bag and blew into it so hard his face got red and his cheeks stuck out; so that it made the Paris Doll laugh out loud.

"Here, don't blow up!" she cried.

"Don't worry about me!" he said, as he began to tie a string to his airship.

"I want you all to look out there," he said, "for I will have to run around as fast as I can so as not to let my airship hit the ground. It is going to hit the ceiling, you can bet on that. I say, there! Get the Cat for me so that she may go along."

"I don't want to go," said the Cat peeking out from behind the Toy Dog.

"All right, then," said the Clown, "look out, for here goes my famous airship."

And he ran around the room as fast as he could, looking behind to see how far up his airship had gone.

All of a sudden he bumped into the tub where the Paris Doll had been giving the Baby Doll her bath. And "cher-plunk" he went into the water.

"Better look where you are going next time!" shouted the Toy Cat to the Clown Doll, as the Policeman Doll fished the wet fellow out of the water.

No "Come Back."

Dr. Johnson's statue in the Strand has now been unveiled.

"Who's that?" asked a passer-by.

"Johnson," came the answer.

Fat Specialists Disagree

Authorities disagree as to the best method of overcoming the diseased condition of the system, known to the medical profession as "obesity." But when it becomes necessary for fleshy people to reduce their weight in order to improve their general health and meet the demands of fashion, the simplest and quickest course will always prove the most popular. The Marmola Prescription, published broadcast by an eminent physician, is without doubt the safest and most satisfactory solution of the problem, inasmuch as this method is absolutely harmless and requires no dieting, exercise or other self-denial. This famous prescription is now sold in tablet form, which will add to its popularity, as well as to its convenience and effectiveness. In Marmola Prescription Tablets the original formula is unchanged, therefore they are not only economical and harmless, but the reduction of weight is steady and natural, without resulting in wrinkles or flabbiness. Druggists sell a large case for 75c, or the Marmola Co., 199 Monroe av., Detroit, Mich., will send them by mail, prepaid, on receipt of price.—ADV.

Enthusiasm.

Anxious Messenger: Say, fireman, there's another fire broken out up the street.

New Recruit: All right, old chap; keep her going till we've finished this one.—Punch.

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for hooping cough, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—ADV.

Superstition of the Man Next Door.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By HENRY W. FISCHER.

No. 11—Russian Superstition.

THE number of Russian superstitions is legion, but some of them as not without symbolic beauty.

A man's wedding ring is of gold, but is made to fit the wife's finger. The woman's wedding ring is of silver and is made to fit the husband's finger. The significance of this peculiar custom being as follows:

The gold ring shall signify to the wife that Ivan Ivanovitch is the sun of her future home. Hers is a silver ring because, like the moon, she is supposed to receive her brilliancy from the husband, i. e., the sun.

At the wedding ceremony the rings are exchanged, the woman receiving the gold ring, the husband the silver one to signify complete accord of husband and wife.

The number of divorces in Russia per year can be counted on the fingers of one hand—which happy state of things is partly due to the superstition that the sun—giver of life—would be offended if the husband is.

Accordingly, a divorced woman is held responsible in Russia for all damage due to the weather—a powerful deterrent against divorce.

The Russians believe that a hanged person cannot die, but wanders forever with a rope around his neck. Owing to this superstition the Government changed the mode of death penalty from hanging to shooting at the beginning of the last revolution. It is claimed that the judges themselves feared visitations of victims if dispatched by way of the noose.

If a Russian gentleman has persistent luck at cards, his victims invariably accuse him of "carrying a rope in his pocket" (a bit of hangman's rope).

The piece of hemp is likewise valued as a talisman against sickness, bodily and mental misery and financial reverses of all kinds.

A basis for the superstition is found in this other: The rope, in taking life, is impregnated with the mental and physical forces of the departed. The possessor of the rope, accordingly, believes that he has gained a valuable assistant in the battle of life, his cunning and physical strength being doubled.

Garlic, among other commodities of our high-priced town, has of late suffered a considerable advance in price. For this sad state of affairs the Russian cholera epidemic is indirectly responsible, for in all the broad cholera zone every man, woman and child carries a garlic clove on a string around the neck to "frighten away the pest."

Accordingly, the garlic fields of Mexico and Spain are drawn upon to the utmost and New York prices experience a boost.

The garlic necklace is the only precaution the ignorant Russian peasantry will adopt as a preventive against the scourge. Yet this superstition, like many others, is not without a kernel of truth, for garlic actually possesses certain medical properties of the tonic and stimulating sort (none, however, that coud possibly prevent a disease like cholera from creeping into the system).

Possibly the fact that the ignorant regard cholera as an evil spirit, sometimes assuming the guise of a horrible woman, may have something to do with the superstition.

Great Women I Have Been

No. 1. In This Article, the Masterly Study of the Passion for Vengeance Contained in Fedora, Is Discussed for the Post-Dispatch

By Sarah Bernhardt.

> "Vengeance Is the Most Debasing of Passions. It Makes Mankind Lower Than the Animals to Whom It Is Totally Unknown."
>
> "In Woman It Is Even More Disastrous Than in Man. In the Heart That Beats Time for the New Generation There Should Be Room Only for Pardon and for Peace."
>
> "In a Sense Revenge Is the Passion of Inferior Natures. It Admits Equality With the Offender. It Is Inconsistent With the Contempt We Should Always Feel for Those Who Do Us an Injury."

TO be a great woman means simply to find your opportunity for a great love, a great vengeance or a great devotion. Every woman has latent in her soul such possibilities which the dramatist crystallizes into a great character and which it is the privilege of the actress to interpret.

I do not know which of my many interpretations I prefer. I do know that among all my roles those of Hamlet and of Phedre seem to me the most successful. I mean that I act them better according to my ideas of acting.

The public has a fondness for "Camille." It is a great role—a veritable modern Magdalen—a woman redeemed by love, as good and bad alike must be redeemed from the selfishness and ennui of a life with no thought of sacrifce or of devotion.

But I have selected for my first article the character of Fedora, the woman who was not simple enough to listen to her love. In this respect Fedora is the most modern of all the characters I have interpreted. Jeanne d'Arc heard—or thought she heard—voices telling her to do one thing—save her country—and she accomplished it, as those who hear only one call always will. But the modern woman hears many voices urging her in different directions—the call to power which this century offers her; the call to literature, to art, to the stage; the call to politics in the cry of "Votes for Women"—I will treat that subject in another article—and the muffled call to love, almost extinguished by the other cries.

Fedora's love was lost in the call to vengeance. Perhaps you are not familiar with the story of this masterpiece of Victorien Sardou.

The scene is at St. Petersburg. Fedora, Princess Romazoff, a young widow of enormous wealth, is engaged to marry Capt. Vladimir Jariskine. The Captain is brought back to his study murdered, and Fedora vows herself to the detection and discovery of the murderer.

Suspicion points to Loris Ipanoff, an extremely rich young nobleman of Nihilist tendencies, who lived just opposite Vladimir. The police seek Ipanoff and discover that he has escaped. Fedora, in despair, throws herself upon the dead body of her fiance.

Fedora goes to Paris, which she learns is the asylum of Ipanoff, to follow out her vengeance. Ipanoff meets her and falls violently in love. In the ardor of his devotion he admits the murder to her. The hour of her vengeance has arrived.

She gives him the key of her home and tells him she will expect him that very night. Then she notifies a Russian detective that the hour for Ipanoff's arrest has arrived. When Loris appears he tells her the story of the murder. He is not a Nihilist, but killed Vladimir, whom he surprised with his young wife, who died a week after the murder.

Thus Fedora learns that the man she is seeking to revenge betrayed her as well as Ipanoff. Realizing that if Ipanoff leaves the house he will be seized by the detectives who surround it she entreats him to stay, and he remains. Fedora and Ipanoff flee on her yacht to the Island of Jersey. There Ipanoff learns that owing to the denunciation of an unknown enemy his brother was drowned in a prison dungeon and that his mother has died of grief. He in turn vows vengeance upon the unknown enemy, and Fedora, in despair, denounces herself and swallows a deadly poison.

The play of Fedora is a masterly study of that most debasing of human passions—vengeance—the one passion which makes mankind lower than the animals, to whom it is totally unknown.

Revenge is a man-made passion—God knows nothing about it. It was not born in the humanity which he created. Cain murdered Abel, but no one sought to take revenge upon Cain. He was marked by his crime, as we all are, but no one sought his life.

God does not take revenge, though sometimes he chastens. In a sense revenge is the passion of inferior natures. It admits equality with the offender. It is inconsistent with the contempt we should always feel for those who do us an injury.

In woman it is even more disastrous than in man. In the heart that beats time for the new generation there should be room only for pardon and for peace.

ADVERTISING ON SUNDAY DECLARED TO BE ILLEGAL

Contracts Violate Old Sunday Labor Laws, Court of Appeals Holds.

TEST IN ST. LOUIS CASE

Decision Regarded as Most Sweeping and Likely to Have Wide Effect.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—Contracts for advertising to be printed on Sundays are void, according to a decision handed down by Judge J. M. Johnson of the Kansas City Court of Appeals.

The Judge declared that such contracts were for work to be done in violation of the Sunday labor laws, and for that reason could not be enforced

The decision came in the case of George W. Knapp & Co., owners and publishers of the St. Louis Republic, against Jeremiah Culberson, president of the International Exploration Co., with offices in the National Bank of Commerce Building. Unless it is taken to a higher court, it virtually ends the matter, because the Judge declares the newspaper has no cause of action. It reverses absolutely the decision of the Circuit Court, which awarded a judgment to the Republic. All the judges of the court concurred.

Culbertson had a contract with the Republic for some advertising to be printed in Sunday issues of that paper. The advertisements were published as the newspaper agreed to do, on April 12 and 16, 1908. Culbertson avoided payment and suit was brought.

The legal point upon which the case hinged was on the legality of a newspaper taking a contract to do certain things when the criminal laws said, or purported to say, that those things were not lawful. The appellant relied upon an old statute which makes it unlawful to do any work on Sunday except works of household necessity.

"The contract is void," said Judge Johnson, "because it is against public morals and public policy. The courts will not lend their aid to enforcement of contracts in violation of the criminal laws."

Judge Johnson's decision is said to be one of the most sweeping ever handed down by a Missouri court. It is thought that not only newspapers, but all other contractors for any kind of work to be done on Sunday, except the so-called household duties and works of necessity, will be affected.

CORNER REALTY CO. BUYS FEE TO SHUBERT THEATER SITE

It Is Believed That the Building Will Be Improved With Additional Stories.

The Corner Realty Co. has purchased the fee to the site of the Sam Shubert Memorial Theater Building, at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Locust streets, which it recently erected under the provisions of a 99-year lease, for $285,000. The transaction was effected by the Mercantile Trust Co., on behalf of Isaac H. Lionberger.

The lot has a frontage of 149 feet on Twelfth street, by 100 feet on Locust street, and recently was improved by the lessee and purchaser with the five-story building which is jointly occupied by Shuberts' Theater and the Union Electric Light Co. under leases which place the property on a fine investment basis.

In the construction of the building, provisions have been made for the extension of the structure to 12 stories, which this transaction foreshadows. The building, which was promoted by C. H. McMillan, vice-president of the Mercantile Trust Co., has reawakened downtown Twelfth street.

CAPT. BROWN TO HUNT GAME IN MEXICO AND THEN AFRICA

Decides on Farewell to Sporting Friends Before Entering Business.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 8.—Capt. W. Harry Brown, mine owner of this city and New York, decided to give a farewell to his sporting friends before devoting himself to business. He will hunt lions and other game in Mexico and then transfer his operations to Africa.

Having mapped out his campaign he had his sea-going yacht provisioned and last Saturday he sailed away on it to New Orleans. At that port he will be joined by his party, consisting of 12 millionaires from this district. Among them are John M. Phillips, T. J. Taylor and L. A. Robinson. Others are of the younger generations, who have been friends of the Captain, but whose fathers also were the companion and friends of Capt. S. S. Brown, the father of W. Harry Brown.

Actors' Unions Are Combined.

JOB FOR WALLACE IF NO OTHER MAN CAN BE OBTAINED

Little Scot Will Get Job Unless Hedges Finds Experienced Leader.

C. MACK TO STAND PAT

Lanky Cornelius, Though, Has Eight Recruits for Team Next Year.

Rhoderick Wallace, the clever shortstop, will be the manager of the Browns—if President Robert L. Hedges is unable to line up some other individual whom he believes is better capable of running the team than the little Scot. Like first-class baseball players, first-class managers are rarifies. So Hedges is taking his time before making a selection.

Wallace hasn't been named yet. But he stands an excellent chance of being Jack O'Connor's successor. Hedges is sweeping the field in the hope that he can find a man who has made his mark as a commander of a major league team. He has cast longing eyes at such men as Fielder Jones, Harry Davis, Bill Donovan, Jimmy Callahan, Dr. G. Harris White, George Stallings et al. But for different reasons he has been unable to line up any of those mentioned. It's a difficult matter to obtain the releases of men like Donovan, Davis and White. Jones and Callahan are well fixed in other lines of business.

Can Fall Back on Wallace.

Hedges states positively that he hasn't asked Wallace to manage the Browns. Nor will he until he learns that he cannot obtain the services of some other man. Wallace is Hedges' property. He is also a star ballplayer. The increase in salary and Wallace's ambition would undoubtedly cause him to try his best—as he always does—in the role of commander.

From sources other than the American League headquarters come reports that Wallace will be the Browns' manager. Hedges says he is in no hurry to name the 1911 leader, but as the chances for landing some other man are slim, Wallace will get the job.

The American League meeting is scheduled in New York Dec. 14. Hedges is going to be there. He says he may take his manager with him, may appoint him there or meet him there. "But I am going to sidetrack everything else hereafter but baseball, in my efforts to upbuild the team," says the Browns' owner.

Connie Mack to Stand Pat.

Connie Mack will probably stand pat on the team that won the American League pennant and the world's championship title from the Cubs. The Athletics are composed mostly of young players. Many wise baseball sharps pick the Quaker team to win the championships for two more seasons at least.

However, Mack, the fox, has added eight new players to his squad. Four are pitchers, the most important of whom is Clarence ("Lefty") Russell, who set the Eastern League on fire as a member of the Baltimore team. Hogan, an outfielder, from the Coast, is expected to try for one of the outfield positions with Lord and Hartsel as his rivals. Catcher O'Neil from the Elmira (N. Y.) team, is said to need only experience.

Mack is now in Europe on his honeymoon worrying least of all about his team for next season. He has the class and Philadelphia fans are confident.

Warm Welcome for Jack Coombs.

The return of Pitcher Jack Coombs of the Athletics, who won three of the four games from the Cubs, to his farm in Kennebunk, Me., is related as follows in the Portland (Me.) Press:

"To say that Mr. Coombs was surprised would be putting it mildly. In thanking the gathering (a cup was presented to Coombs) he stated that he preferred to receive all individually at his home, 'and then,' said Jack, 'I believe I could do justice in showing my appreciation of your genial welcome home, and above all your handsome present, which will always be cherished by me.'"

The following is the engraving on the cup: "Presented to John Coombs by his fellow townsmen in acknowledgement of his Athletic victory of 1910. Kennebunk, Oct. 21."

FRED TENNEY PREFERS JOB AS PLAYER TO AN UMPIRE

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—If Fred Tenney, former first baseman of the New York Giants, does not accept President Lynch's offer to become a National League umpire, he will bob up next season as part owner and manager of some minor league club. Tenney recently sold his stock in the Boston National League Club for $12,000 and is looking for another baseball investment. He believes that he is good for several years more at first base, and does not care to take up umpiring as long as he can play.

Directors of the York (Pa.) Club in the Tri-State League have come to bat with a liberal offer to Tenney to manage that team, and he is considering the management of a New England League team also.

Monument for Golfer Anderson.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Golfers from all parts of the country and Canada will raise a monument over the grave of Willie Anderson in Chestnut Hill Cemetery, near Philadelphia.

The Eastern Professional Golfers' Association announces that a fund for this purpose, together with a testimonial fund for the widow will be raised by the association.

WRAY'S COLUMN

JUST where St. Louis University classes in the football world will be shown in the two remaining games of the schedule. Kentucky State will force the eleven of Bender through a stormy session next Saturday and give a line on how the local eleven compares with the big Western teams. Syracuse, too, which comes Thanksgiving day, will afford a comparison through Michigan, which beat the Empire State men two touchdowns, and through Yale, which could only defeat Syracuse men 12—6.

• • •

Kentucky State is a real eleven. Like Cochems' machine of 1907, it observes no eligibility rules whatever. Last season it was able to defeat Illinois University's strong team. This year it has an improved machine over the formidable 1909 one, for it has tallied 176 points and has not been scored against.

• • •

Bender need not worry as to what to do with all his good backfield men. He will need them all against this team, and if his men win, St. Louis University will rank with the best in the West. Illinois University intends to claim the conference championship; and Kentucky State looks quite able to hold its own with the Illini this year.

A victory over Kentucky State will mean a probable victory Thanksgiving Day in the wind-up of the schedule.

• • •

Where Do They Get It?

WHERE do the Illinois rooters get this "championship" bee, with Minnesota still in the field? The Champaign men do not seem to have a chance with the crew of McGovern and company, which made a show of the strong Michigan team last season, and seems quite able to do the same thing this year? Illinois was lucky to beat Indiana by a field goal, and that's far from championship class.

• • •

Scrimmage practice for football teams will soon be in the same category as raw beef for prizefighters.

• • •

Spending the Profits.

ONE reason why the American League has been steadily drawing in front of the National for the past three years is found in the fact that annually the league unbelts for a good many more thousands in the purchase price of new players. Already the American League is far in the lead for the coming season in the sum spent to rejuvenate its clubs. The total for the National League is $161,950, as against $225,050 for the American League. The difference would buy ten first-class players—enough to start a new club.

• • •

Class Lacking in Valley Race.

The valley conference football championship seems to lack decision. Nebraska undoubtedly has the edge, but it is very slight, Kansas deserving nearly an even break. Missouri, Iowa and Ames are so hopelessly close in efficiency, or want of it, that it is hard to separate them. Washington seems outclassed, although it did not show its hand when it was run over by the strong Arkansas University eleven. All the teams are rather weak in scoring power and the battle between Missouri and Kansas will be a sort of second division scramble.

• • •

Will Rhoderick Dhu?

WALLACE surely knows the baseball to be a manager. He can't have lived and flourished all these years with talent all around him, playing in championship form without picking up about all there is to know of the "inside" and manual game. Whether he's an executive nobody can tell until the management of the Browns is tried on him to see if it fits. In the absence of anyone else there is no reason why Wallace shouldn't be permitted to make an effort.

Many think "Bobby" too mild; but could anyone be more placid and lady-like than Connie Mack? And it's been very rarely that Connie doesn't have something in the way of a fighting team.

Men of Wallace's stripe are what we want in baseball. We've had about enough of the "aggressive" type, which thinks by making faces at the umpire and shouting Billingsgate it can clamber into first place.

That sort of "playing" gets no team to the front these days.

• • •

"You're no good," said Mr. Foster Sanford, coach of the Yale football squad, to his men, "and you play like a lot of babies. You are entirely too gentle. Now I'm going to show you that you've got to play football or quit. If you have football in you I'm going to find it."

This was two days before the Brown game.

Monday's reports stated that Mr. Sanford was still pursuing his search diligently.

• • •

It seems the big leagues are to be Fletcherized. At least Dan'l of the same name swears his new third league will "chaw 'em up."

• • •

Few Fatalities in 1910.

UNLESS the football season has an extremely gory finish, the new rules will have "got by" with a fairly clean reputation for conserving the human frame. Tuesday morning the death roll numbered but two, with one of those said to be primarily due to other complications than football.

But the changes have not made a wild hit with the football regulars. The game has been restricted in scoring to such an extent that many minutes of hard and really successful work go for nothing in the matter of tallying points.

In the main, however, the best teams have won and not even accident and the new game have been able to put weak elevens much nearer the top. Straight football may not score as often as formerly, but it is still the determining factor of football ability.

• • •

Bender Deserves Flowers.

JOHN BENDER surely has made good with St. Louis University eleven. The team which defeated Missouri was the same squad as that which Warner sent to the slaughter last season. It is a different aggregation, however, in efficiency. The most noticeable feature of its play was the cleanliness with which the men fought. In the entire game on both sides there were but three penalties—a truly remarkable contest considering the liability to misunderstanding prevailing under the new conditions.

• • •

In point of clean football, however, Washington University and Arkansas probably played a record game, for this or any other year. But one penalty is reported during the battle—or, rather, slaughter.

BOTTO IS CHOICE FOR CUE MATCH

In the second game of the series between Kansas City and St. Louis in the national amateur three-cushion billiard tournament, R. Norgrove of the former city will meet Vincent Botto of local fame tonight at Charlie Peterson's billiard rooms at 8:15.

Botto will attempt to make up for the loss of the first game of the series Monday night, when F. M. Keyes of Kansas City defeated Frank Peterson of this city, 50 to 49, one of the closest matches of any importance ever seen in this city.

At no time during the entire course of the game were the two opponents separated by more than four points. As the match drew to a close Peterson only had one point to make, while Keyes still had two to go. Peterson tried to play "safe," but they rolled badly and left Keyes a shot which he made, tying up the score.

"Pete" tried and missed, leaving a "set-up," which Keyes took advantage of and the match went to Kansas City.

Owing to the nature of the game that the men were playing, that is, trying to play so many shots safe, their average was not high, it being only .36 for both of them. The high run for both players was 3. Wednesday night Keyes will meet Tom Carter in the third match of the series.

M'KINLEY FOOTBALL PLAYERS INJURED IN CLASS BATTLES

The McKinley High School, which has abolished interscholastic football in favor of class football, has found the change to be of a rather disastrous nature, thus far. Harold Strauss had his collar bone broken in such a way, while playing a game, last Friday, that it had to be wired together. Arthur Albrecht, another player, had his kneecap broken. These two injuries are the worst that have ever happened at McKinley, there being no serious accident in the history of that school while a member of the I. L. League. It was this year that the school was withdrawn from the league by its Principal, Prof. G. R. Morrison. He was the organizer of the school's class football league.

JIM STEWART IN SOFT SPOT IF HE BEATS KAUFMAN

Victory Will Graduate Him Into Job as "Hope of White Race."

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—There are two or three little elections on this week that will be eagerly watched by the sporting fans. There is the Brown-Murphy bout at the Olympic Thursday night—who'll be 'lected? It may be Brown; it may be Murphy.

Tommy Murphy is very clever and a fairly hard puncher. He's a jarring infighter. He may possibly be able to knock out K. O. Brown, although, to tell the truth Tommy hasn't shown a soporific kick for a long time.

As for K. O.—that young candidate for championship titles is likely to knock out anyone he hits. If he leans his left against that long jaw of Tommy's—good night! Knock Out's strength in this fight will be his awkwardness. Doing the unexpected thing is what worries the clever fighter. Brown is as "unexpected" a piece of work as anyone I know. Murphy ought to win—but will he?

Heavyweights Will Battle.

And then the next night—Friday—comes a rare battle between two famous heavyweights—conceded to be the best big white men in the game today—Kaufman and Jim Stewart.

Al Kaufman has fought Johnson a 10-round no-decision contest finishing strong and willing to keep going. He has not been worried much by anyone since his first professional fight when (slow music and curtains) Jack O'Brien stopped him.

Kaufman is much criticised for being slow—but he wins his fights right along, and after all that's the test of a fighter.

Stewart has reached the stage where he enjoys fighting. He roughs continually in his training. His recent fight with Burns was a mauling match. Stewart says, however, that he'll be nice and fair in this coming battle—no more "one-two punch" with glove and elbows.

Great Chance for Stewart.

If Kaufman wins his reputation will grow a lot. But the man with a real chance, Friday night, is young Jim Stewart. If he should manage to stop Kaufman he'd become the first genuine "hope" in sight since Reno. He has the physique, the size, the strength, the quickness, and in spite of one or two fights in his early days—when he didn't know much—I am satisfied that he has the heart. One thing more is needed—the natural "fighting head" that Kaufman has. And Stewart may have that.

Whoever wins it'll be a hot session while it lasts.

BIEL AND ERXLEBEN TRAIN FOR 10-MILE CHAMPIONSHIP

Outdoor track athletics will have its last gasp this season in Western Amateur Athletic circles with the annual ten mile run for the Western Amateur championship Saturday, Dec. 3.

The Missouri Athletic Club entries for this big event, I. F. Biel, Joe Erxleben and Robert Temm, have already started diligent training. Dr. Bassett instructor of athletics at the M. A. C., says they are all in fine condition at present. The course this year will be from Normandie Grove to the M. A. C. clubhouse.

• • •

The next aquatic event for the M. A. C.'s finny tribe will be the closed handicap meet Thursday, Nov. 17. The program will include four events, 50-yard dash, plunge, 220-yard sprint and 100-yard back stroke. In these closed meets the men who finish first, second and third, get five, three and one points, respectively, and at the end of the season the man having the largest number of points receives a gold medal.

• • •

The next boxing "smoker," given under the direction of Eddie Randall, the M. A. C.'s boxing instructor, will be held the last Saturday night in November. Mr. Randall is rapidly recovering from his injury received by broken glass falling from an arclight in the gymnasium.

BENDER POLISHES TEAM PLAY FOR KENTUCKY GAME

But Thanksgiving Day Battle Is One St. L. U. Coach Is "Pointing" for.

Johnnie Bender held no practice for his St. Louis U. football team Monday afternoon, but allowed them to take a good rest. They will start in Tuesday afternoon with a long signal practice and some work in catching punts.

There was some fumbling in last Saturday's game which probably preventented the blue and white eleven from making at least one touchdown. Bender will give special attention to this point for awhile every afternoon so as to eliminate all chance of it in next Saturday's game against the Kentucky State team. Although the men and Coach Bender feel that they would like to win that game, if possible, still they will not take very many chances of having their men injured, as they consider the game on Thanksgiving against Syracuse of much more importance.

• • •

At least two of Dockery's kicks in last Saturday's game measured over sixty yards. They dont' come much better than that.

• • •

In last Saturday's contest against the Missouri Tigers, Zachritz proved that he could make as good a water carrier as he could halfback.

• • •

The Yale and Princeton Alumni of St. Louis have engaged a room at the Planters' Hotel where they will receive the returns from their big game next Saturday, over a special wire. Admission will be by invitation.

• • •

Two games were won Saturday by safeties. Iowa beat Ames 2 to 0, and Oberlin defeated the Western Reserves, 8 to 6.

HARVARD LINE-UP FOR YALE BATTLE VIRTUALLY SETTLED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—Practice of the Harvard team is progressing smoothly. Yesterday's work was light, as is the custom the Monday after a contest. Potter, the nimble quarterback, developed a case of "Charley horse" Sunday and T. H. Frothingham gave his knee a slight wrench Monday afternoon. Otherwise the squad is O K.

Practice today on the stadium should resume its usual aggressiveness. Most of the veterans will be in harness and made to show that they are not living on their reputations. Perkins, at center, seems a forlorn hope in regard to starting against Yale. Huntington will no doubt have to play center. Otherwise the line should be just as it is now: Minot and Fisher, guards; McKay and Withington, tackles, and Lewis and L. D. Smith ends. Wigglesworth will be at quarterback. Corbett will be one halfback. If Ted Frothingham can be brought around he will play the other, and if H. C. Leslie can trade his water on the knee for something on the hip, ligament, for instance, he will make the fourth man behind the line.

TIGERS NOT UNDERESTIMATING STRENGTH OF YALE ELEVEN

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—The Tigers will have their last practice for the season of 1909 on University field this afternoon. The entire squad, accompanied by the coaches and trainer Fitzpatrick, will leave here tomorrow afternoon for Delaware Water Gap, Pa., to get away from the excitement here and to get in the best possible condition for the final test of the season with Yale here next Saturday. They will not return until Friday night. While there they will have secret practice and will probably change the signals for Saturday's contest. The coaches will use every means in the remaining few days to polish off the team for the "one big game of the year."

The fact that Yale was beaten last Saturday does not cause the supporters of the Orange and Black to regard victory as a foregone conclusion, for they know that Yale will fight to the finish and will not be defeated until the last whistle blows.

The team lined up yesterday as they will probably begin the game next Saturday. It was as follows:

Harry Lewis Now Welter Champion

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 8.

HARRY LEWIS of New York City won the welterweight championship of the world by defeating "Fighting Dick" Nelson in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout before a crowd of 3000 at the American Athletic Club here last night.

Nelson was floored four times for a count of nine when his seconds threw up the sponge. In the first round a right to the jaw sent Nelson sprawling to the mat for a count of four.

He managed to stagger about the ring until the end, but was "all in" when the bell sounded for the second round, and within a minute was floored four times and his seconds acknowledged defeat.

Cubs Just Played Bum Ball.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 8.—Pitcher Harry McIntire of the Cubs is here on his way to Jacksonville, Fla., where he is to act as betting commissioner for Ed Ryan at the winter racing meeting. His explanation of the Cubs' defeat by the Athletics is as follows:

"We just played bum ball, that's all."

RHEUMATISM
PURIFYING THE BLOOD
THE ONLY PERMANENT CURE

No case of Rheumatism was ever cured except by a thorough purification of the blood; just as long as the blood remains charged with fermenting uric acid poison, the painful disease will continue. The pains and aches of Rheumatism are simply superficial effects of the impurities in the circulation, and sometimes may be temporarily relieved by the application of plasters, liniments, hot cloths, etc. But the person who trifles with this dangerous disease by depending on local treatment alone, is certain to pay for the mistake with constant suffering later on. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism in the only way it is possible to cure the disease. It goes down into the blood, and removes the uric acid from the circulation, so that the nerves, bones, muscles and joints are lubricated and fed with nourishing elements instead of being continually irritated and inflamed with the sharp, uratic impurity. Then when S. S. S. has cleansed and purified the blood, the pains and aches cease, all inflammation disappears, stiffened muscles are made pliant, and every troublesome symptom of Rheumatism is permanently corrected. ## CAYOU TO HAVE BEST TEAM OUT FOR TIGER GAME

Only Injured Men on Squad Will Be Fit for Saturday's Gruelling.

The annual battle with the Missouri University Tigers, the big game on the Washington University schedule, has excited considerable interest amongst the student body of the myrtle and maroon school, and in all probability a majority of the local students will make the trip to Columbia to see the game in which the tribe of Coach Frank Cayou makes its most determined fight each year.

Cayou had a light squad out to practice Monday night, but the real preparatory work for the Tiger contest will start Tuesday. A light signal drill was held Monday afternoon to get the kinks out. Heeley and Abeken, two backfield men, who again injured their legs in the game Saturday, will be in the line-up by Saturday, as the injuries are slight. The rest of the team will be at Cayou's disposal, so Washington will be at its strongest against the Tigers.

Jab Wins for Harvey.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Charley Harvey clearly outpointed Jim Carroll of San Francisco in 10 rounds before the Knickerbocker Athletic Club here last night. It was fast, clever fighting by both men throughout, but Harvey was able to get in and away with effective jabs to the face and body, incurring no punishment for himself. Every round was Harvey's except the seventh, when Carroll landed many more times than he.

GAS AT 20 CENTS 1000 FEET, PROMISE OF UNIVERSITY MEN

Kansas Students of Illuminating Problem Have Made It at 40 Cents.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Nov. 8.—Gas can be made from the highest priced bituminous coal, for not to exceed 40 cents a thousand cubic feet. Experiments conducted in the engineering department of the Kansas State Agricultural College have proved this. Furthermore, the tests show this cost can be reduced one-half by use of low-grade coal.

To utilize this gas effectively the college found it necessary to design a new type of burner and modify materially the connections ordinarily employed in gas plants.

When the investigations under way in this line at the college are completed gas will be available to every public institution and small village at a nominal cost, the experimenters assert.

CONFERENCE FOR FORMING AERIAL LAW IS PLANNED

French Writer Presents Outline of Problems to Start Discussion.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—A world congress on aerial law is being widely discussed in France where experts are raising innumerable questions pertaining to future wars involving the use of airships. France desires the leadership here as well as in other branches of aeronautics. A thesis written for a doctor's degree by Edmond Philot, a student at the Sorbonne, is attracting considerable attention.

"Aerial war will be the war of tomorrow." With the foregoing as a basis he proceeds to put the following questions: "Should the air be considered free to everyone or is it susceptible of sovereignty? If the former, it opens the door to spying, smuggling and the hurling of projectiles." He concludes that the air should be free like the ocean, the states reserving the right to reasonable protection.

"Have aerial fleets the right of flight anywhere, or must they avoid neutral countries? Should they be allowed to cross neutral countries or descend for supplies in a neutral country?"

To these questions M. Philot answers no, declaring that when fleets become powerful enough to engage in battle each nation will have aerial police to arrest the breakers of international laws. The questions as to the identification of airships and the sort of projectiles which it should be allowable to hurl are also considered.

FREEDOM IS NEAR FOR CONTRACTORS IN HARBOR GRAFT

Federal Board Is Expected to Recommend Parole of Greene and Gaynor.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—Benjamin D. Greene and John F. Gaynor of Syracuse, N. Y., probably will be free in a few days. They were sentenced to four years' imprisonment in the Federal prison here and to pay fines aggregating $576,000 for conspiring with Capt. Oberlin M. Carter, U. S. A., to defraud the Government of that amount in connection with contracts to improve the harbor at Savannah.

The Federal Parole Board recently created by Congress will meet here and will recommend that Greene and Gaynor be released on parole, it is asserted. A prisoner must have served one-third of his sentence and behaved well during it before the Parole Board may consider his petition. The terms of Greene and Gaynor will expire next February. Their conduct has been good.

Mrs. Gaynor under an assumed name has been near her husband here.

Capt. Carter, a brilliant young officer, was in charge of the Government work at Savannah; Greene and Gaynor were the contractors. They were arrested in New York in December, 1892. They long resisted extradition to Georgia, but were taken to Savannah in February, 1902. Each gave $40,000 bail.

Carter Was Dismissed.

They jumped the bail, fled to Canada, were arrested, and when their extradition was refused by a Canadian judge, an attempt was made to kidnap them and carry them across the border. An exciting steamboat race down the St. Lawrence River was an incident in the attempted abduction.

Further court proceedings ended in their release on habeas corpus. From Justice Catron's decision the United States Government appealed to the Privy Council of England, the first time it had carried a case to that tribunal.

The Privy Council ordered the prisoners turned over to the American officers for trial. After a long, persistent and involved struggle with the law the United States Supreme Court decided against Greene and Gaynor and they were sent to prison here.

Meantime Capt. Carter was tried by courtmartial, dismissed from the service and sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

LARGEST HYDRAULIC FILL DAM IN THE WORLD IS COMPLETED

Forms Reservoir Holding 6,000,000,000 Gallons of Water for Electric Power.

NECAXA, Mexico, Nov. 8.—One of the greatest engineering feats and earth construction works upon the continent has just been completed here. It is the largest hydraulic fill dam in the world, built by the Mexican Light and Power Co. of the City of Mexico. It is larger than the famous Gatum dam of the Panama Canal, both structures being of the same type.

The Necaxa dam required in its construction the use of 20,000,000 cubic yards of earth and 5,000,000 tons of rock. It forms a reservoir, which has a capacity of 6,000,000,000 gallons of water. This reservoir is now filled.

The reservoir formed by this dam is one of five that belong to the water storage system of the company. The enormous supply of water is used to operate the great hydro-electric plant which supplies electric power and lights for the City of Mexico, the El Oro mining district and town, the city of Puebla and the city and mining camps of Pachuca.

VALUABLE BOOKS PILED ON FLOORS IN THE CAPITOL

Photographs Used in Campaign for a New State Building.

FIRE IS A MENACE

Priceless Documents Exposed to the Ravages of Rats in Closets.

Photographs of the interior of the present State Capitol at Jefferson City were used in the campaign for the fifth constitutional amendment, authorizing the erection of a new capitol building without increased taxation.

The photographs show the closet and basement rooms in which the State's pricelessly valuable records and documents are stored. A few steel filing cases furnish the only protection which it is now possible to give any of these articles against fire.

It is pointed out that any up-to-date county has better means of caring for its records, and greater facilities for the public to refer to them, than has Missouri. The courthouse of any of a dozen counties is a better building than the capitol, it is argued.

Volumes on the Floor.

One photograph, taken in such dim light that it is scarcely clear enough for newspaper reproduction, shows a room with thousands of volumes piled on the bare floor, and exposed to dust, rats and danger of fire. This room is the one assigned to the auditor for his records and reports.

Another view shows the heavy volumes of statutes and official records of the Secretary of State piled ceiling high without protection.

There are photographs also showing legislative committee rooms and executive office annexes, with floors and walls as rough as those of a stable.

ADOPTED CITIZEN FOR WHOM ENGLAND WAGED WAR DIES

King Theodore of Abyssinia Killed Himself After His Army's Defeat.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Harmudz Rassam, the Assyrian scholar and explorer, whose cruel treatment by King Theodore involved England in a $45,000,000 war with Abyssinia, which ended in the suicide of the African ruler, is dead in the English village of Hove, where he had been many years in peaceful retirement. He was born in northern Mesopotamia, and came to England early in life and became connected with the British Museum.

The museum sent him on several archaeological expeditions to Assyria and Babylonia, during which he acquired more than 100,000 pieces of terra-cotta and clay-inscribed tablets recording the religious and general history of the two famous old kingdoms. He found the sites of several ancient cities, among them Sippara and Centhah.

In June, 1864, he took charge of the English mission to King Theodore of Abyssinia, who had imprisoned and maltreated the British Consul and several other European prisoners. Rassam and two companions were shut up in the fortress of Mabdala and were kept there almost two years in chains.

Great Britain sent to Abyssinia a punitive expedition under Lord Napier. They smashed the monarch's army and stormed and demolished the Magdala fortress, from which Rassam and his two fellow martyrs had been released. King Theodore shot himself to death to avoid the humiliation of capture.

POET'S WIFE FORBIDS HIS FLIGHTS—OF FACT, NOT FANCY

Rostand and Son Had Planned to Join Increasing Flock of Birdmen.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—An aviator has brought discord into the household of Edmond Rostand, the poet. Where formerly all was harmony, now there is trouble, or would be if Rostand had not bowed to his wife. Mme. Rostand has put her foot down on her husband's flights of fact, not fancy.

Tabuteau is the immediate cause of the discord. On one of his record-making flights he passed over the estate of the poet and the latter wrote a sonnet to the aviator, which was immediately published at usual rates. Then Rostand decided that he could write a better sonnet if he had actually experienced a flight, and announced that he would soon make arrangements to do so, but Mme. Rostand said nay—or French to that effect. Not until flying had become as safe as motoring would she consent for her gifted husband to seek inspiration among the clouds. Rostand, like a dutiful husband, proceeded no further with his arrangements, but will satisfy himself with writing sonnets. It also happens that M. Rostand's son had decided to try aviation and had ordered a monoplane. But when he heard his mother's ultimatum to his father, he quietly canceled the order.

Search for Miners' Bodies to Be Long.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 8.—The recovery of the bodies of the 11 repair men who were killed by an explosion in the Lawson mine of the Pacific Coast Coal Co., promises to be a long and expensive task. It may be necessary to rebuild the entire shaft to reach the bodies. The mine is so nearly wrecked [illegible] it will be abandoned.

PITTSBURG IS TO WAR ON GAMBLING FOR CANDY STAKES

Police Will Stop Practice of Children Playing Lottery for Sweets.

BEGINS A HABIT

Practice Often Leads to More Serious Evils Later in Life, Is Declared.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 8.—Gambling for candy is to be stopped in every part of the city. Controller Morrow will call upon Superintendent of Police McQuaide to enforce the law against dealers who are violating it. He declares it is being violated in many parts of the city. He uncovered a Supreme Court decision which applies to this seldom recognized form of "policy" gambling.

After investigation the Controller says that the gambling instinct is being developed in the children of the city by the seemingly harmless candy lotteries. He was furnished the first evidence by a candy manufacturer who discovered that jobbers promoting these lotteries were flooding the city with their catalogues. The Controller procured two of these catalogues, one issued at Chicago, Ill., and the other from Michigan City, Ind.

Children are induced to risk from 1 to 15 cents on the chance of winning a box of candy. The enormous profits of the jobber and dealer are shown by the catalogues themselves. One "raffle card" which costs the jobber $6 is sold to the retailer for $8, and the card brings the retailer $12. The rate is about the same on more expensive or on cheaper cards.

Children Get "Fever."

Many methods of taking chances are offered. All are worked by the number and name system. For instance: Spaces on the card are marked with girls' names or popular baseball players. You are asked to put down 10 cents and pick the name of your best girl or your favorite ballplayer. If the number which corresponds to the name is the chief number in the lottery you win a box of candy.

The number system also is worked extensively. Chances are from 10 to 15 cents. If you pick the right number you win. There are a whole lot of numbers which do not win. The well-known raffle system of picking a blank containing numbers of from one and upwards, paying the amount of the number, is used.

These catalogues also offer lotteries for whisky, wine and other liquors. This attraction is offered in this shape:

"Something for Nothing! You May Get a Bottle of Fine Liquor for Nothing! Or—Take Home a Bottle of Fine Whisky or Wine, a Necessity on Your Sideboard or Medicine Chest! To the dealer—This card will sell one quart of whisky and one bottle of wine and will take in $2.38."

To Protect Little Ones.

Cigars are played for in the same way. The practice of gambling for candy, according to the Controller, is prevalent all over the city to an alarming extent. He said:

"It has horrified me to learn the extent of these candy lottery schemes to fool the children. Our school children, and even those that are too small to go to school, are gambling their pennies in this way. That instinct born in so many that craves for games of chance has been developed to alarming extent. The dealers who are taking the children's money must know that they are violating the law.

"I thought at first of having introduced in Council an ordinance prohibiting such traffic in Pittsburg, but I learned that a decision of the Supreme Court makes this unnecessary. There is plenty of law to stop this kind of gambling, and I will call on Supt. McQuade to enforce it."

Scores Promoters.

Those who invent these schemes and make money from them are guilty of the most unscrupulous villainy.

It will be known today just how many dealers are violating the law using these candy policy games. The police department has methods of ascertaining their names and locations almost instantly.

Fairs which foster candy paddle games probably will receive attention. It is held to be gambling of practically the same form as the lotteries. Controller Morow declares that all these forms of chance taking are prohibited by strict law, and that dealers and others who run the game are liable to fines and imprisonments.

TROLLEY LINE IS OBJECTED TO

The East End Property Owners' Association decided Monday to investigate the franchises sought by the Southern Traction Co. to use the streets for an electric and steam line, intended to run over the Free Bridge. This decision was reached after hearing a talk by F. H. Gerhart at the Merchants' Exchange, in which he said the bridge would be pocketed by the proposed downtown trolley loop, blocking the main railroad approaches. Gerhart objected also to the plan whereby the company would own the rails and ties on the bridge, holding this might complicate the city's ownership.

H. A. Mepham, a stockholder in the traction company, spoke in favor of the measure. H. H. Hauessler was appointed to investigate the proposition.

LARGEST SAILING VESSEL IN THE WORLD, WHICH IS BEING POUNDED TO PIECES ON THE ROCKS

CREW REFUSES TO LEAVE SCHOONER; SEAS POUND HER

Tugs Cannot Pull Preussen, Largest Sailing Vessel, Off Rocks.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

DOVER, Nov. 8.—The crew of the Preussen, the largest sailing vessel in the world, steadfastly refuse to leave the craft, hard and fast on the rocks of Crab Bay.

For 40 hours heavy seas have pounded the steel ship and it is feared she cannot be saved. Two passengers were taken off this morning after 12 tugs had made an ineffectual attempt to pull the Preussen from the rocks.

The Preussen is a ship rigged steel vessel of 4768 tons with a cargo capacity of 8000 tons, under Capt. Niesen. She reached Hamburg Aug. 20 from Taltal, Chile, whence she sailed June 4. After reloading she sailed from Hamburg a few days ago. She is 407 feet long and 53 broad with 27 feet draft. She was built in 1902.

LIBEL SUIT TO STATE COURT

Appeal in St. Louis Company's Case Dismissed by Government.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Department of Justice on behalf of Russell P. Goodwin, Assistant Attorney-General for the Postoffice Department, and Robert M. Fulton, Postoffice Inspector, formerly at St. Louis, today procured the dismissal in the Supreme Court of the United States of their appeal from its decision of the Federal courts of Missouri, which had refused to take jurisdiction over a libel suit against them.

The suit was instituted by the People's United States Bank of St. Louis, on a statement issued in connection with the withdrawal of second-class mailing privileges from the Woman's Magazine and Woman's Farm Journal, issued by the Lewis Publishing Co. at St. Louis. The suit was begun in the State Courts of Missouri and after the Federal Courts refused to remove the case from the State courts at the request of the Federal officials an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court. The case now will proceed in the Missouri courts.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Twenty-five important paintings, valued at nearly $500,000, will be turned over soon to the Metropolitan Museum of Art by the executors of the estate of Col. R. G. Dun. The death of his widow Sunday at Hot Springs, Va., releases these works to the institution. Col. Dun died in 1900.

Most of the paintings are excellent specimens of the work of the Barbisons, including Millet, Corot and Daubigny. They were purchased by Col. Dun about twenty years ago.

Among the more notable paintings are Daubigny's "Marsh," Corot's "Prairie on Forest Border," Rosa Bonheur's "Calf and Cow," Millet's "Washerwoman," Dupres' "Peasant Girls in Field," Bougereau's "Awakening of Cupid," and Troyon's "Shepherd and Sheep."

GAS CO. ACCUSED OF OVERCHARGING EAST ST. LOUISANS

Merchants Declare Charter Provides for Reduction of Price Not Made.

That the people of East St. Louis are being overcharged for gas by the St. Clair County Gas & Electric Co. was the substance of a report of a special committee appointed to look into the matter for the Retail Merchants' Association. The report was read at the monthly meeting of the association Monday night.

According to the report the charter granted to the gas company in 1899 by the City Council provided for a rate of $1.15 a thousand feet for lighting purposes for the first 10 years, $1.05 for the second 10, and $1 for the next decade; for a rate of $1 a thousand for cooking and heating purposes for the first 10 years 90 cents for the second 10 and 75 cents for the third 10 years.

One Rate Stipulated.

It also provided, the report stated that where gas was used for both lighting and heating the heating rate was to be charged. The committee reported that the rate charged was $1.15, although the first 10 years had elapsed and no reduction was made where both heating and lighting gas is used.

The members of the committee are Theodore Soellinger, chairman; Charles F. Merker and C. B. Goedde.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR FLANNERY AS A THIEVES' FENCE

Son Tells of Burglaries He Committed With Knowledge of His Father.

A warrant charging William Flannery with receiving stolen property was issued Tuesday. Flannery is a locksmith at 2312 Olive street and a Republican election judge in the Twenty-second Ward.

Will Graham, 18 years old, accused by Flannery of entering his shop and stealing a knife, told the police that Flannery was maintaining a fence for thieves. After the police had searched Flannery's shop and found stolen property they released Graham and arrested Flannery and his sons, William, 16 years old, and Clarence, 14.

Clarence was sent to the House of Detention. William was released Tuesday after he told of several burglaries which he said he committed with his father's knowledge. In the shop were found several cans of stolen paint, two stolen rifles and a gold watch, identified as his property by R. F. Seidel, a cabinetmaker, at Nineteenth and Pine streets.

Flannery denies, the police charge, that he is a Fagin, teaching young boys to steal. He says his sons told him they found the goods.

NATIVE CATTLE—Receipts dropped off day, partly attributable to the recent declines and partly to the fact that this is election day and many shippers want to be at home to vote. The market braced up a trifle today, the smaller offerings helping the situation materially. There was a moderate supply of steers with the quality averaging a bit better than yesterday. One string of choice steers came in. They ought to fetch $7 or even more. Low grade steers showed some strength. Cows and heifers in fair supply and they sold steady to strong. Bulls and stock cattle held steady, while veals manifested a stronger tendency.

HOGS—With a moderate supply on sale the market opened straight 10c higher, but this advance was lost in a short time and the late trade was weak and not even steady with yesterday. The top of the market was $8.55 for several loads, mostly light weights, but still one load weighed 245 pounds. The bulk of the hogs of all weights sold at $8.15@8.45. Bulk of the medium and light weights that were good sold at $8.40@8.50. Packers were strongly opposed to the advance and did not enter the market until the advance was all lost. Packers had to pay well up in line for their light weights, but the heavy hogs sold at $7.75@8.10 as a rule. Little pigs were slow sale all day. The market was very irregular and closed draggy with only a fair clearance.

HORSES AND MULES—There were not so many buyers in attendance at today's auction. The quality of the offerings was of a poor variety and suffered some decline in prices. All first-class offerings of quality sold well enough at good prices. Fresh receipts for the day approximated 75 head. The mule trade remains about the same. The demand for nice fat cotton mules was fairly good throughout the day and they sold at good strong prices. Miners and sugar mules sold at steady to strong prices for the qualified kinds. Fresh mule receipts for the day were light, approximating 50 head.
